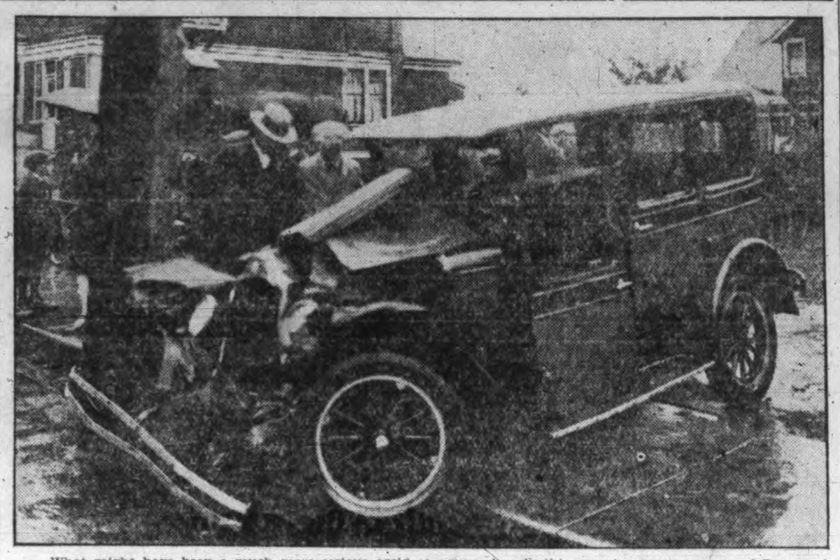
WRECKED TO-DAY IN COLLISION AT FERNWOOD-PANDORA CORNERS



What might have been a much more serious accident occurred early this morning at the corner of Fernwood Road and Pandora Avenue when cars driven by George McMillian and John Worth came together at one of the most dangerous intersections in the city. Both drivers were removed to hospital for treatment, Mr. McMillan suffering from slight concussion and Mr. Worth from cuts and bruises. Both cars were badly smashed by the impact.

Government Tree Farm Here To Grow Timber For Forest Reserves

British Columbia's first attempt to propagate timber artifically on a commercial scale will get under way here shortly. Plans whereby large quantities of commercial trees will be grown from seed on Shelbourne Street just outside the city, and later planted in Government timber reserves, were announced by Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, to-day.

Mr. Pattullo reiterated his statement, made frequently in the Legislature, that this Province cannot at this stage consider artifical reforestation on a Province-wide scale nor would such plans, even if financially possible, compare in effectiveness with the natural forest growth. In some of the Government's timber reserves, however, areas which would benefit by artifical methods have been discovered, the Minister explained. Given satisfactory soil, weather and other conditions, he said artifical reforestation would be made a success. It is proposed to use it in limited areas within the reserves which the Government has set aside as permanent sources of forest wealth.

FOLLOWS EXPERIMENTS

The decision to introduced this method out a limited scale followed lengthy experiments by forestry experts of the Lands Department. Mr. Pattullo said. For many years, he stated, the forestry service has been experimenting with the production of trees from seed, besides investigating methods of artifical planting used in other parts of the world.

"Of course British Columbia could not begin to pay for a Province-wide system of replanting," he said. "As a matter of fact, in most places this is not required as natural regeneration is taking place rapidly. In some places, too, artificial planting is not a permanent success, as European countries have found. It is necessary to have the proper conditons to make such methods successful, and it is these conditions we have been investigating for years. We propose to plant certain portions of our forest reserves, where we believe valuable work can be done in this way."

TO ESTABLISH FARM

Foresters are preparing now to establish the Government's tree farm on Shelbourne Street where land has been leased for the purpose.. Seeds of British Columbia's commercial timber will be sown there as in a nursery. The tiny trees thus grown will be planted out in selected forest areas where experts believe they will grow successfully.

MAN TELEPHONED OFFER OF MURDER

Plot Against Alderman Recounted at Police Inquiry in Windsor, Ont.

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 1.—Testimony dealing with a supposed plot to have Alderman Clyde Curry "bumped off" provided a sensational feature at yesterday's sitting of the Windsor police inquiry, which was opened last Friday before Judge J. J. Coughlin and Mayor Cecil Jackson, police commissioners, after Curry had preferred "graft and inefficiency" charges against the suspended chief, Daniel Thompson.

Superintendent James R. Wilkinson of the police identification bureau told of the alleged plot to have Alderman Curry "bumped off." Wilkinson said he had received a telephone call a month ago from an unidentified man who questioned, "Do you want this guy Curry bumped off?" Wilkinson said his reply was: "What do you mean?" The man at the other end of the line replied: "I'll take him for a long ride and he won't come back." Wilkinson warned that such practice would not be tolerated in Canada. The conversation then terminated and Wilkinson reported the incident to Chief Thompson, he said.

CATERING TRADE TO COME UNDER WAGE LAW NEXT

New Board to Apply Statute to Limited Class of Labor Here Now

Altered Programme Will Provide Individual Consideration of Wages

Male minimum wage regulations will be extended first to employees in all branches of the catering business before being applied to employees of hotels and rooming houses, it was announced officially to-day.

This alteration in the plans of the board administering the law was explained by J. D. McNiven, chairman, as desirable in the interests of all concerned. By thus dividing the hotel, rooming house and restaurant business into two labor classes the board will be able to give detailed consideration to the individual conditions in both divisions, Mr. McNiven said.

PLAN NEW BOARD

A new board with Mr. McNiven as chairman will be created immediately to apply the minimum wage law to the catering trade. Appointment of a representative of employers and a representative of employees will be made within the next week, Mr. McNiven indicated. As a result of the decision to confine the law for the present to the catering business, a representative of this trade rather than a representative of the hotel business generally will be appointed, it is understood. Names proposed by catering associations and labor organizations are before Mr. McNiven now and will be considered by the Government before it makes the appointments shortly.

TO INVESTIGATE CONDITIONS

Immediately after being appointed the new board will investigate working conditions of all persons employed in the catering business. The resulting order, fixing a minimum wage for those operations, will apply to cooks, kitchen help and waiters in all establishments, including hotels, restaurants and catering concerns. Employees of such establishments not actually engaged in the catering business, such as clerical workers, will not be affected at present.

EXTENSION LATER

Later the present board or another appointed for the purpose will consider wages in the remainder of the hotel, restaurant and rooming house business apart from the catering branch of the operations.

ANTI-RAT CAMPAIGN NOW IN FULL SWING IN BRITAIN

London, Nov 1.—Although the Pied Piper of Hamelin is not in the cast, Britain's best rat catchers were out early to-day in their best work-a-day bibs and tuckers, and with their sharpest spears and other things to make it an unpleasant day for rats of high and low degree. The war on rats—mice are merely incidental—began at dawn and is to be pushed day and night, Sunday included, for a solid week.

National Rat Week last year netted millions of rats. Some enthusiastic experts claimed 8,000,000 as the toll. Others guessed more, but pessimists less. Anyway C. L. Clairmont, former chemist of the rat research laboratory of the Ministry of Agriculture, has estimated the yearly loss of the country through rats at £70,000,000. Estimates place the rat population of the British Isles at 40,000,000 in round and hungry figures. This is about the number of persons given in the last census. As active family of rats consumes nearly as much food as a man in good health with a fair appetite.

The main offensive is in the hands of William Dalton, head rat catcher of the city of London. He has eighteen lieutenants and scores of buck privates, who dug themselves this morning at strategic points of the infested districts and put their latest weapons of destruction into action.

Rat clubs had been trained to the pink of condition and cats, dogs and ferrets were held in reserve as reinforcements

THREE SHOT IN CHICAGO DURING NIGHT'S EVENTS

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Elaborate plans for a safe and sane Hallowe'en in Chicago went askew last night and the celebration was declared the most tumultuous in years.

Two boys and a woman were shot, a policeman was stabbed, street car service was interrupted and the city fire department was flooded with false alarms.

TWO INJURED IN CRASH AT BLIND CORNER

George McMillan in Hospital; John Worth Hurt, But Both Recovering

George McMillan, 634 Gorge Road, is in hospital, and John Worth is suffering from cuts about the face and painful bruises to-day, following a collision at 2.45 o'clock this morning at the intersection of Fernwood Road and Pandora Avenue. Mr. McMillan sustained a slight concussion, but the Jubilee Hospital reported him resting comfortably late to-day, and conscious.

The accident happened at the familiar "blind" corner, where police records show so many automobiles have come to grief. Mr. Worth was driving west on Pandora Avenue and Mr. McMillan was traveling south on Fernwood Road when the cars crashed with a violent impact. Both men were flung heavily into their steering wheels and were cut by flying glass splinters from windshields of the two machines.

Mr. McMillan was unconscious after the crash, having been hurled from his seat to the road in a litter of glass and grease. Mr. Worth was so dazed that he could recall little of the immediately preceding circumstances.

SENT TO HOSPITAL

Constable George Varney was driven with the police patrol to the scene of the crash. There he made a rapid survey of the scene, drew conclusions as to what had occurred and assisted Dr. Eric W. Boak, who hastened to attend the scene, to care for the injured men.

The police ambulance rushed the men to the Jubilee Hospital at Dr. Boak's orders. Stitches were put in Mr. Worth's face and Mr. McMillan was cared for. He was still unconscious when he arrived for treatment. Mr. Worth was able to return to his home in Esquimalt this morning. He was confined to his bed, however.

The tangle of wreckage at the intersection of the two streets where the two cars met indicated the force with which they came together. Fenders smashed, windshields splintered, wheels broken and the bodies dented and twisted, the two late model sedans appear almost total wrecks.

Chief of Police Fry, in reporting on the accident this morning, commented upon the dangers which lurk at the dangerous Fernwood-Pandora intersection—perfectly blind on the northeast corner, to drivers coming from both directions.

Sankey Trial At Prince Rupert

Mr. Justice Morrison Declines to Change Hearing to New Westminster Assizes

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Expressing the opinion there was no fundamental difference in the material from what had been submitted on a similar application in August, Mr. Justice Morrison in the Supreme Court here to-day refused to grant Joseph Sankey a change of venue for his trial on a murder charge from the Prince Rupert assizes, which are to open November 23, to New Westminster assizes, opening November 8.

Sankey, an Indian, is charged with having murdered Miss Loretta Chishold, a school teacher, about a year and a half ago at Port Essington.

J. E. Bird, on behalf of the accused, who was granted a new trial by the Supreme Court of Canada after he had been found guilty and sentenced to death for murder, complained a trial at Prince Rupert would be prejudiced to Sankey. He urged a Prince Rupert newspaper had published an incorrect report of an alleged statement which had been made by Sankey to the police.

EVERY WEEK

"Why did not you take proceedings against the newspaper?" inquired Mr. Justice Morrison.

"If I did that I would have to do it every week," replied counsel.

In particular, Mr. Bird objected to a reference in The Prince Rupert Daily News of Sankey as the "Indian murderer of Miss Loretta Chisholm.

JURY TO VIEW SCENE

For the prosecution, A. M. Johnson, K.C., argued there had been shown nothing more than a possibility of prejudice and that was not sufficient to justify a change of venue. In addition, he announced he proposed to ask the trial judge to order a view of Port Essington and the locality of the tragedy.

"If the newspapers published anything prejudicial to a fair trial, they laid themselves open to contempt of court proceedings," said Mr. Justice Morrison

DRIFT OF RYOEI, JAPANESE FISH SMACK, TO COAST OF WASHINGTON IS MYSTERY

Two Bodies in Eighty-seven-foot Auxiliary Craft Towed to Port Townsend; Officers of Liner Margaret Dollar Believe the Crew Numbered Twelve When Disaster Overtook Vessel; Seaweed and Barnacles Cover Hull

Seattle, Nov. 1.—After studying weather-browned papers found in the Japanese fishing smack picked up eight miles off the Washington coast yesterday by the liner Margaret Dollar, the Japanese consulate here to-day tentatively identified the craft at the Ryoei Maru.

The bodies of two Japanese were found in the 87-foot craft.

At Port Townsend, Wash., the hull of the ship was found to-day to be shrouded with seaweed two feet long and to be sheathed with barnacles. The standing gear of the boat was bent and twisted by the force of ocean gales.

Seattle, Nov. 1—A gruesome mystery of the sea was unfolded here to-day with the arrival of the liner Margaret Dollar, which picked up off the Washington coast an 87-foot Japanese fishing smack that apparently had drifted more than 3,000 miles across the Pacific Ocean with the lifeless bodies of two of its crew as the only cargo.

The two Japanese, whose bodies were found in the sleeping quarters of the 100-ton craft, were apparently the survivors of a crew of more than twelve, in the opinion of Captain H. T Payne, master of the Margaret Dollar. What happened to the others may remain forever a mystery, but Captain Payne believes they leaped overboard when their food and water supplies became exhausted.

Discovery of a pile of bones in the derelict craft added further horror to the mystery. Whether they were bones of human beings could not be determined by the Margaret Dollar's crew.

NOW AT PORT TOWNSEND

The three-masted Japanese craft was picked up eight miles off the Washington State coast yesterday by the Margaret Dollar and was turned over to federal authorities at Port Townsend, Wash.

"We found little in the drifting vessel save clothing for more than half a dozen men, I should judge," said Captain Payne. "I am familiar with the type of fishing vessel used on the Japanese coast and there is no doubt in my mind that the boat drifted all the way across the Pacific. The boat is eighty-seven feet long and was equipped with a gasoline engine in addition to the hemp, canvas and bamboo sails typical of the native fishing vessels of Japan.

DRIFTED 100 DAYS

"In my opinion the two men aboard had been dead for at least a month. I should judge that it took more than 100 days for the vessel to drift across the ocean and I am sure it did just that. There were probably a dozen in the crew to begin with. The empty water casks and food larders indicate the boat was caught in a storm or a calm and most of the crew ended their

DU PONTS TO AID BUILDER OF PLANES

G. M. Bellanca to Make Many Machines at Wilmington, Delaware

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The Philadelphia Record says a tentative agreement has been reached between Giuseppe M. Bellanca, aeroplane designer, and several members of the Du Pont family by which Bellanca will establish a plant for the manufacture of aeroplanes on the outskirts of Wilmington, Delaware. E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company is said not to be involved in the deal, the finances coming from those of the Du Ponts who are interested in aviation and its future development.

The purpose of the Du Ponts, The Record says, is to surround Bellanca with an organization which will enable him to create mass production and at the same time leave him a free hand as a designer.

Yesterday afternoon the women's auxiliary to the Health Centre, who have always loyally championed her cause, held a farewell social in her honor and presented her with a pair of silver vases in token of their appreciation of her invaluable services to the municipality over the last five years and their sincere regret at the severance of her associations with the Centre.

DRUMHELLER COAL STRIKE IS ENDED

Men Return to Work in Alberta; Dynamite Crimes Investigated

Drumheller, Alta., Nov. 1.—The strike of the Canadian Mine Workers in the Drumheller Valley having been called off, the men reported for work this morning. It is expected the mines will be working normally again within a short time

Police authorities have as yet failed to find any clues to the culprits who made unsuccessful attempts to dynamite box car loaded at the Hy-Grade Mine and the shaft and ventilating fan at the Elgin Mine early yesterday morning.

Inspector Harrison of the Alberta Provincial Police announced yesterday that no arrests had been made and that everything was quiet. The investigation is being continued.

TWO GANGS INVOLVED

According to the police it was evident there were two separate parties working, as the dynamite shots went off at intervals of five and ten minutes. The damage at the Hy-Grade Mine was slight, only a few of the boards at the ends of the loader being blown off. At the Elgin Mine the damage also was slight, the explosion wrecking a part of the cement base holding the fan in position. One of the iron supports was also blown away.

The dynamite was stolen from the powder house at the Atlas Mine.

The last dynamite outrage in Drumheller was in 1925, during the strike, when the Hopkins family's home in Newcastle was dynamited and a large cache of explosives was found near the Calgary Brewery's warehouse at the same time, causing quite a commotion.

Disappointed in the small percentage of mayors, governors and congressmen who were willing to part with $10 for America First Foundation, "General" Thompson turned his attention from organization of his regiment of political leaders to an appeal for parental volunteers to brave enemy progaganda in the battle for more and purer heroes; to round up school history books which declare "that Boston was the centre of vulgar sedition; that the Continental Congress was a collection of quarrelsome, pettifogging lawyers and mechanics."

Another of the home-bound sealers from Behring Sea, the schooner Umbrina, Captain Haan, arrived this morning. Two or three others are reported in the Straits, so that if the weather continues favorable a good size fleet should be safely at anchor in the harbor before evening.

ANGLICAN SYNOD MAY HOLD NEXT TRIENNIAL HERE

Bishop of Columbia Returns From Eastern Meetings; Problems Discussed

Victoria may be the scene of the next triennial meeting of the General Synod of the Anglican Church, to be held in 1930. This announcement was made by Right Rev. C. deV. Schofield, Bishop of Columbia, who returned yesterday afternoon from the East, where he has been attending the session of the General Synod and the House of Bishops.

The decision as to the choice of Victoria for the next meeting lies largely with the local church authorities, as the bishops and delegates at the recent General Synod heartily concurred in the suggestion that this city be the next meeting-place, in order that they may have an opportunity of seeing the new cathedral. It therefore remains for the cathedral authorities to make the necessary arrangements, if the progress of the new cathedral in the interim permits, for the consecration of the new nave at that time.

SURVEY OF ACTIVITIES

In an interview with the bishop, he reviewed some of the important matters relating to church affairs discussed at the Synod. The discussion anent the simpler executive organization of the church's varied activities led to the appointment of a national commission to make a complete survey of all the varied problems and needs of the church in the light of the reports of the executive committees of the Missionary Society, the General Board of Religious Education, and the Social Service Council, the Beneficiary Committee and the National Laymen's Committee, the resolutions submitted to or passed by the General Synod, together with all appeals of whatsoever character relating to the work of the church in the home or foreign field, and to arrange a plan by which the work of the National Laymen's Committee may be continued and developed.

The establishment of a pension fund on an actuarial basis for aged and retired clergy was also carried a step nearer to fruition, through the discussions.

PROBLEMS ABROAD

Dr. Schofield touched upon some of the outstanding speakers and the debates, notably those which dealt with the church's problem in meeting the spiritual needs of the thousands of new settlers in the West. More men for the ministry, better trained teachers for the young, and money for the maintenance of the work, formed the substance of many appeals.

Other serious problems which exercised the earnest attention of the Synod was that of India's millions, for whom speakers urged the establishment of a bishopric in the Tanagra district.

The needs of native Christians in China, harried and persecuted, yet remaining loyal to their Christian faith, were presented dramatically before the assembled delegates. Fortunately, the Canadian Bishop in Honan, the Right Rev. William C. White, had followed a policy that had prepared the way for the independence of the Chinese Church in that section of the country.

MRS. SCOFIELD HOME

Mrs. Schofield, who returned home with the Bishop, while in the East attended the triennial meetings of the Women's Auxiliary to the Anglican Church. She also took the occasion while in the East to visit in St. John, Rothesya, Fredericton, Montreal, Detroit and Chicago.

FALL WEATHER DELAYS MAINE-COPENHAGEN FLIGHT

Curtiss Field, N.Y., Nov. 1—The amphibian Sikorski biplane, the Dawn, owned by Mrs. Frances Grayson, Long Island real estate dealer (left), who still hopes to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic, is back at its starting point here to-day. The flying expedition to Copenhagen, Denmark, planned for this Fall, has been indefinitely postponed.

The plane was flown here from Old Orchard, Maine, where it had been for weeks and from where three false starts were made for Copenhagen. It was piloted by Wilmer Stults (right above), who was accompanied by Brice Goldsborough (left above), who was to have made the Atlantic trip as navigator and radio man. The picture of the plane above shows the unusual form of the tail.

WARM CONTEST FOR CITY POLICE BOARD

Retiring Commissioner, Capt. A. M. Aitken, to be Opposed

Two Candidates in Field and Two Others Mentioned as Possible

A contest for the single vacancy on the city police commission is assured by an announcement from Capt. A. M. Aitken, retiring commisioner, that he will offer himself for re-election.

William White, of the firm of Minty & White, previously announced his intention of standing for election, while a third possible candidate in the person of Andrew McGavin is mentioned. Mr. McGavin stated recently he was considering the matter, but had not yet decided his court.

The retiring commissioner has served four years on the city police board, and was a school trustee in 1920 and 1921, and an alderman in 1921.

The entry of a "dark horse" into the contest was rumored to-day when it was stated unofficially that a candidate formerly well-known in public life in Victoria was being groomed for the contest.

Police Commissioner Walter E. Staneland is the continuing member of the board, and the Mayor-elect for 1928 will be the chairman.

MAYOR OF CHICAGO BROADENS HIS FIELD

Thompson Says His Americanism Campaign Is to Be Nation-wide

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Mayor William Hale Thompson believes his arch foe, the British lion, has begun to assume the proportions of an octopus.

What wa sa playful lion cub in the Chicago schools grew into a raging king of beasts on the shelves of the Chicago Public Library. Then metamorphosed into a sea creature, its tenacles reaching out toward Americans, young and old.

Such was the picture the mayor painted in an address in Toledo last night. His supporters at hom added other strokes to the canvas until a comprehensive picture of "British propaganda" was completed.

Addressing the Greater Toledo Club, Mayor Thompson said he planned to make a nation-wide crusade of his fight against "British propaganda."

"We are going to straighten out the affairs of the schools in Chicago and we are going to make our campaign nation-wide," he said.

NEW BODY FORMED

Mayor Thompson's nation-wide campaign against the propaganda he believes to exist took the form of the America First Foundation, membership invitations being sent to governors, senators, congressmen and mayors throughout the coutry. Its announced purpose is to promote better citizenship "with a nation-wide educational programme to teach the constitution of the United States and respect for our form of government."

Replies to invitations to join continued to arrive from all parts of the country.

VANDERBILT JOINS

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. asked to be enrolled as a "private citizen."

"I know I need not remind you that all pioneers in every walk of life are severely criticized, but in the end it is these men who found nations, creatd principles and set the pace which the critics must follow to keep in the running," he said.

FOURTH OF JULY

Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska replied:

"The Fourth of July is a big enough institution in the United State sto render unnecessary any such undertakings."

LIBRARY POSITION

Directors of the Chicago Public Library, i a letter to the mayor, said the refused to be startled by his cry of "Lion, Lion." They declared the library to be an institution of speech not to be throttled.

The directors explained the library shelves contained much written on subjects of debate, such as religion and politics, and that the trustees, in presenting these thoughts to a free-thinking public, were endorsing none of them.

George Washington was another presidential stickler for economy. Once he refused to eat a shad that cost $3, because he did not want it said that his table set an example of extravagance and luxury.

Ever Thought of Endowing your Home?

SUPPOSE that — having purchased a home and effected a mortgage on it—you should die suddenly!

Wouldn't your wife and family have a hard time meeting the interest on the mortgage and discharging the principal sum when due?

Not so however if you were insured under an Imperial Endowment policy for the amount of the mortgage.

A small amount invested each year in such a policy will enable your heirs to pay the mortgage immediately after your death, even if it should occur next week.

On the other hand, if you should live until the policy matures you can then pay off the indebtedness yourself out of the proceeds of the Endowment.

Have you a mortgage on your home? Why carry this responsibility yourself? Why bequeath an unpaid mortgage to your loved ones?

Let us show you how easily you can make sure of its repayment whether you live or die.

KIWANIANS HEAR TALK BY TLOMIE

Development of Pacific Province Dealt With by Federal Member for Victoria

British Columbia and its development was the subject of a talk delivered to-day by Dr. S. F. Tolmie, M.P., before the Kiwanis Club at its weekly luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Tolmie pointed out that if city residents insisted upon supplies of British Columbia grown foods they would aid development of farming, which in turn would assure home markets for industrial products of the Province.

There should be a firm policy of encouraging home manufacture of raw materials, although certain industries, such as lumbering, required exportation of raw material.

As an example of the value of home manufacturing of raw materials, Dr. Tolmie pointed to the Consolidated Smelter at Trail, which pays out $3,000 per hour for wages, supplies and freight, while earning $14,000,000 in the last year for dividends.

CROWD ON HAND AT START OF NELSON TRIAL IN WINNIPEG

thrown open the guards were almost swept off their feet. Every seat was taken within three minutes and many who forced their way in but could not find accommodation were turned back to join the throng outside.

PRISONER MANACLED

A few minutes after the doors had been barred Nelson was brought into the courtroom, manacled to two guards. He sought to avoid the stares of the spectators, walking dejectedly to the prisoners' dock. He was wearing a dark suit, was clean shaven and appeared to have put on considerable weight since his committal to his steel and concrete cell four and one-half months ago.

Special precautions were taken for the removal of Nelson from the provincial jail to the courtroom, six armed policemen forming the guard.

A silence fell over the courtroom as the murder charge was read to the prisoner. He appeared to be unconcerned while the clerk was reciting the formal charge.

Nelson was instructed by his senior counsel, J. H. Stitt, to plead not guilty.

SELECTION OF JURY

A panel of sixty-two jurors has been summoned and there is a probability an additional number will be called for service in the event of counsel exercising their full rights of challenge.

The twelve ultimately chosen to pass upon the guilt or innocence of the prisoner probably will all be farmers. Only a few business men from the Winnipeg district are included in the panel. Not one woman was summoned.

INSANITY ARGUMENT

While the defence has declined to reveal its line of action, it is understood a plea of insanity will be entered, not as a bar to the man's trial, but to support evidence which the defence has indicated it will present, that Nelson is a fugitive from the Napa State Asylum at Imola, California, and that he had been committed at three other times of his career to a mental institution. Certified copies of the Napa institution records, it is learned, have already been prepared and notice given that the documents will be offered as evidence.

FIFTY-FIVE WITNESSES

In all about fifty witnesses are expected to be called by the prosecution, while the defence is not likely to summon more than four or five.

Mrs. Nelson, wife of the accused man, who journeyed to Winnipeg from California, and Nelson's aunt, Mrs. Fabian of Palo Alto, Cal., are the principal defence witnesses.

SECOND CHARGE

Nelson has also been indicted for the murder of fourteen-year-old Lola Cowan, but will not face trial on that charge unless acquitted of the first charge.

R. B. Graham, K.C., and E. H. Crawford are conducting the prosecution. James H. Stitt is senior defence counsel and J. R. Young is his assistant. All to-day came armed with bulging brief cases, relating to a case which possibly has aroused greater interest than any other in the criminal history of Canada. The murders of which Nelson stands charged were described by Winnipeg police officers as the "most heinous in the annals of crime."

The two Winnipeg victims met their deaths in the same manner and under similar circumstances.

It will be impossible for those in the courtroom to leave until the end of each session.

Mr. Justice Dysart is presiding.

New lighting arrangements have been made in the courtroom and special accommodation had been prepared for the witnesses, who will be kept together until their turns come to go on the stand.

lives or succumbed to a possibly worse fate.

REPORT MADE

The bodies were left at Port Townsend with the boat. A report of the affair was made here to-day by Captain Payne to the Japanese consul.

A packet of weather-browned documents found in the cabin of the craft was turned over to the Japanese consul for translation.

When the papers were examined at the consulate they were found to be letters, telegrams and receipts all bearing the name of Tokizo Mi[illegible] who was presumably the captain of the ill-fated vessel. All the papers bear dates of nearly a year ago.

Among the documents are personal letters, one from [illegible] daughter, Katzue Miki[illegible] attending school at [illegible] The [illegible] from T. Zune Miki, evidently the wife of the late mariner. It carried a postmark at Wakayama, near Yokohama.

MOTOR FAILED

Inspection of the craft by the Margaret Dollar's mechanics indicated the motor had broken down and that before succumbing to weakness from starvation the fishermen had made frantic efforts to repair a broken valve, which had been removed.

Contents of the tool box were scattered about the boat. An empty water cask and barren larder added their part to the story. The bodies of the two men were propped up in the bow of the boat.

TWO FARRELLS LOSE OUT IN GOLF MATCH

Johnny Defeated by Tommy Armour and Jack Loses Out to Hagen After Hard Match

Walter Did Not Square Match Until 27th Hole; Motrie Dutra of Tacoma Wins

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1. — Tommy Armour, reigning open champion, crossed the first and one of the hardest hurdles in his bid for the professional golfing crown of the country here today when he outpointed Johnny Farrell to win 4-3 in the first elimination round of the professional golfers tournament.

Walter Hagen, who is the present professional title holder, was behind most of the day and did not succeed in Passing Jack Farrell of Glenhead, N.Y., until the 27th hole, where the latter was trapped and went one down. Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N.Y., fell by the wayside, 4 and 3, when Anthony Maneros suddenly became master of his putter in the afternoon round, overcame a four-hole lead and then won the match.

Mortie Dutra of Tacoma downed Albert Alcroft of Youngstown, Ohio, 12 and 11, in a runaway match, while Tom Harmon of Yonkers eliminated John Farrell of Feather River Inn, Cal., 4 and 3. Charlie Guest, another Californian, revenged his state by beating Roland Hancock of Wilmington, N.C.

An unofficial estimate places the loss at more than $200,000.

SCOTLAND TAKING MORE B.C. LUMBER FOR SHIPBUILDING

Canadian Trade Commissioner at Glasgow Here to Meet Victoria Exporters

Major G. B. Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Scotland and Northern Ireland, has arrived from Glasgow on his first tour of Canada in five years to discuss export problems with producers here. He will be in Victoria until Thursday meeting local producers under T. J. Goodlake, of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Canada's export trade to Scotland has been increasing during the last few years at a rate not realized by most Canadians, Major Johnson declared. Not only has the Scottish importation of Canadian hard wheat been gaining, but Scotland is now taking more British Columbia lumber.

"Last year Douglas fir was the best and most economical timber in the Glasgow market and it is becoming more and more used for ships' decking, bulkheading and general purposes," Major Johnson said. "Now that shipbuilding on the Clyde seems to be getting back to normal, there should be room for an expansion in timber exports fro mthis Province, not only in Douglas fir, but in Sitka spruce for bulkheading in the higher class vessels and for other woods as well.

"In Scotland there is a boom in the building of houses which will last for many years. Glasgow alone is at least 5,000 short of requirements and great areas on the outskirts are being built over. Such building, of course, requires great quantities of lumber."

ALBERTA'S $5,820 SUIT BEING HEARD

R. D. Purdy, once assistant manager of the branch of the former Merchants' Bank here, will be called and the whole case is expected to take two or three days. The case itself followed a royal commission inquiry here two years ago into alleged printing frauds. There will be about 200 documents as exhibits.

CHEQUES ARE EXHIBITS

In the claim it is alleged Jeffery approved or secured approval for vouchers for certain printing "which in fact had not been done," the proceeds of cneques on July 21, 1921, being "transferred by the Esdale Press to Matt Esdale, and by him transferred by previous arrangement with the defendant to the defendant, who retained the same," for which $5,820 is demanded. In the alternative a fraudulent conspiracy is alleged, and for the loss occasioned to the Provincial Treasury damages of $8,000 are claimed.

DENIED BY DEFENCE

Denial of the receipts of the funds is made by G. P. Smith in the defence filed, and further the defendant pleads the claim was answered by his acquittal by a jury in a criminal court of a charge of theft on February 5, 1926. Lately on his behalf commission evidence was taken in London of Duncan Marshall, formerly member of the Alberta Cabinet.

As Mr. Smith was not in Alberta while the Royal Commission sat and was not placed in the witness box at the criminal trial, his story of what occurred, which he is fully expected to tell publicly for the first time, holds the greatest interest of those following the trial.

Last Saturday midnight, Hon. Charles Stewart, Federal Minister of the Interior, who made a flying visit to the city, gave advance testimony, and this will be available during the course of the hearing.

There is also commission evidence of Joseph Burgess taken a fortnight ago at Victoria, B.C.

A. L. Smith, K.C., who prosecuted the criminal charge assisted by W. G. Egbert of Calgary, is counsel for the plaintiff, and H. H. Parlee, K.C., and C. M. Bigger, K.C., for the defence.

RUMCHARGES ARE HEARD IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 1.—Indictments charging thirty-five individuals and twelve corporations with conspiracy to divert denatured alcohol to bootleggers were returned by a federal grand jury here yesterday. The list includes Jessie B. Earle of Middletown, N.Y., and Victor Johnson, both former prohibition agents, and Leon Rumage, constable in the town of Florida, N.Y.

It was alleged the conspirators had developed their system to such an extent that the production of redistilled alcohol reached a large daily total.

It was also alleged the corporations indicted were used as a means of diverting alcohol from legal channels and that holders of permits would procure alcohol and sell it to the so-called "bootleggers' syndicate."

Mrs. Bertha Morse, forty, held as a material witness, said the shooting followed a violent quarrel between the couple over financial affairs.

Old Indian Grave Was Discovered

Fredericton, N.B., Nov. 1.—R. P. Gorham of this city, assistant entomologist at the Federal laboratory, who engaged in archaeology in addition to his official duties, recently had the opportunity of investigating an interesting discovery made at Rad Bank, N.B. The discovery was of the grave of a Micmac Indian.

It is estimated the burial took place about 300 years ago. The grave was found to contain fragments of an old brass tub, part of a human skeleton, a portion of a moosehide, a strip of hemlock tanned beaver skin, part of a garment of woven cedar bark cloth, two wallets of birch bark covered with tanned leather, and a lump of reddish pigment believed to be war paint. With the exception of the moosehide the articles were well preserved.

Brockville, Ont., Nov. 1—Walter Benedict, formerly of Clayton, N.Y., is a free man instead of having to serve life imprisonment in New York State under the recently enacted Baumes Law, which makes life sentences compulsory for persons convicted of having committed their third indictable offence.

Benedict, a native of Pierreville, Que., had committed three minor offences in New York State and broke parole by returning to Canada by rowing across the St. Lawrence River at Gananoque. At the request of the United States authorities, he was arrested while working on a farm. He protested and claimed Canadian citizenship. The Canadian Immmigration Department at Ottawa held an inquiry and as a result Benedict was ordered released.

THE ST. LAWRENCE SCHEME

IMPORTANT AND POWERFUL INTERests in Montreal continue to oppose the proposal to deepen the St. Lawrence so that large ocean-going ships may run right up to Lake Ontario. There are two reasons for the objection. They want to retain all the advantages associated with the trans-shipment of water-borne freight and to be free to continue to draw dividends from the sale of power which they already control. If the channel should be deepened, however, Montreal would not be the head of deep water; it would be a port of call for many ships, while new power development would disturb the monopoly which the power barons now enjoy.

It was all right to deepen the channel as far as Montreal by the expenditure over several decades of some fifty or sixty million dollars. That was an act of statesmanship; but to continue the operation a hundred miles farther, carrying the channel through to Lake Ontario, would be, in the opinion of Montreal, a defiance of the laws of Nature. This opposition, in itself, would not be serious. It is too patently selfish and too silly to command any support outside of Montreal itself. With the completion of the Welland Canal there will be a twenty-eight foot channel from Port Arthur to Kingston; and this channel is resumed at Montreal and goes out to the sea.

The Manitoba Free Press, however, considers the opposition of the power trust the more serious of the two objections. It argues that its plan is to keep the St. Lawrence in reserve for a later development, the proposal to deepen it being very unwelcome, since, incidental to its deepening, there will be a great production of power for which a market will be sought. It would, for instance, give the Ontario Hydro-Electric several hundred thousand additional horse-power, a prospect most disturbing to the trust. The Montreal Gazette informs the Ontario concern that it does not really require this power since it can get it elsewhere —which, the Winnipeg paper observes, means that the trust is prepared to sell Ontario power in large blocks from its plants in Quebec, at a price which will provide comfortable dividends for the owners.

Another manifestation of the manner in which these Montreal interests are getting their objections before the public was reflected in a resolution passed at the recent Conservative convention at Winnipeg. It declared that when the project is carried out, at some indefinite time in the future, it must be a wholly Canadian scheme. Did that historic gathering, asks The Free Press, realize when it adopted that resolution that if Canada proposes to be so mighty independent as not to have any "truck or trade" with the Americans in this matter of the waterways, the entire business of shipping grain from Port Arthur down the Great Lakes will have to be abandoned? There is not, of course, a wholly Canadian channel from Port Arthur to Port Colborne, nor can there be one; neither can there be a wholly Canadian channel of the required depth from Lake Ontario to Montreal. We read further:

> The campaign against the waterways is being ostensibly waged on high patriotic grounds. The Americans, we are warned, are scheming to get hydro-electric power, developed in Canada, for their own industries. But the development of the waterways plan will give them no power beyond that to which they are entitled by virtue of their half-ownership of that part of the St. Lawrence which is an international stream. Power developed in Canada will stay in Canada, in keeping with a well-defined national policy. We are further warned that the United States, under cover of the arrangements made for the development of the waterways, will claim joint sovereignty over Canadian waters. The construction of the deep waterways must be preceded by a treaty which will require ratification by Parliament. It is absurd to suppose that the Canadian Government or the Canadian Parliament would consent to share in the slightest measure its control over public works, however constructed, lying within Canada. Upon the points about which the spokesmen for the Montreal interests profess to be so greatly alarmed, our protection is in our own hands; it is inconceivable that we should forego any rights of sovereignty. Americans will have equal navigation rights in the seaway, when it is constructed, under treaties made long ago; and that is all they will have.

It is obvious that the Dominion Government will require to take ample time to study so great an undertaking. But it is bound to regard it as a national enterprise that will be gone on with when the necessary preliminaries have been completed. In their ne[illegible] however, there need be no hesitation in dis[illegible] the parochial and selfish attitude of Montreal [illegible] trust.

youngsters who did really serious damage could be brought into sharp contact with the parental strap. It is easy to understand how powerless the police force was; it would have required a small army to patrol the city and district effectively. At the same time, something in the nature of a special civilian constabulary might be organized for duty next year.

REPUBLICANS OPPOSE SHINGLE TARIFF

IN AN INTERVIEW IN SEATTLE YESterday United States Senator Wesley L. Jones explained that the reason an import duty has not been imposed on shingles entering the neighboring republic from British Columbia and other parts of Canada is because the states represented by Middle Western and Eastern Republicans want cheaper shingles.

Senator Jones also said that at least two years must elapse before there will be an opportunity to press effectively for a tariff on imported shingles, firstly because Congress does not propose to open the tariff question at its next session, and secondly because at the "short session" following the election, changes in fiscal policy never are dealt with.

This is of interest to British Columbia shingle manufacturers in general and particularly to a number of local and Vancouver Island plants. A very large part of the shingle production of this Province is shipped to the neighboring states of Washington and Oregon and to points over the border farther East. If the interests that have been pressing for an import duty of one dollar per thousand were to be successful in persuading Congress to do their bidding, however, a serious blow would be struck at the industry on this side.

It also is interesting to note from the Seattle dispatch that Republicans, members of the high tariff party in the United States, in the East and Middle West are opposing the proposal to impose a duty on shingles, because their states want cheap shingles. This reminds us of the fact that high protectionists in this country often have told us that a customs duty does not necessarily involve an increase in the price of the taxed article to the consumer. Our Republican friends over the line are past-masters in the high tariff business; but apparently they bow to hard fact when they are confronted with it. They know that to tax shingles one dollar per thousand would benefit a few manufacturers and penalize the consumer.

It is well understood by this time, of course, that the amount of the duty imposed upon an imported article becomes part of the first sale price of the local product, while the percentage of profit demanded by all who handle it until it finally reaches the consumer is added to the original producing cost, plus the duty imposed for the benefit of the producer. Hence, the selling price increases or decreases, according to the amount of the duty.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

APPLES AND SKINS

That beauty is only skin deep, at least in apples, seems to have been demonstrated by an experiment recently conducted by Roger B. Corbett of the Rhode Island State College. In his test, Mr. Corbett is reported to have taken four varieties of apples, peeled them, and cut them into cubes which he placed before eleven different men, ranging from bankers and professional men to farmers and mechanics. The apple that was rated first when seen whole, shining in its brilliant, red skin, ranked last in taste. In the taste test the McIntosh won first place, the Baldwin second, the Rhode Island Greening third, and the Rome Beauty last. The Rome Beauty, a dessert apple that is a favorite in stores and on fruit stands, when peeled was found least tasty. In another test to determine the distribution and consumption of apples, 4,000 questionnaires were mailed to Providence families. It was found 46.7 per cent. are eaten raw, 48.5 per cent. cooked, either in pies, sauce or general baking, while apples used in salad constituted 4.8 per cent. This is the kind of test which, we venture to say, would demonstrate the superiority of certain varieties of Nova Scotia apples. For the most part our apples are not noted for their beauty; they lack the high coloring and glossy appearance of the western fruit. That is due to climatic conditions, but when you cut into them, their texture and flavor are unsurpassed, and you realize what a really good apple tastes like. It is not the roslest apple that is the best apple, yet it is mainly the color that attracts the buyer at the fruit stands.

VAUDREUIL (THE YOUNGER)

Q. Who was Vandreuil (The Younger)?

A. The Marquis De Vaudreuil was the 18th Governor-General of Canada from 1755 to 1756, his father having been Governor of New France from 1703 to 1725. Vandreuil (The Younger) was thus the last French Governor of Canada, for the Battle of the Plains of Abraham which took place in 1759 resulted in a British conquest of New France. PARKS AND TREES

To the Editor:—Much interest has been roused by the many letters in your paper on this subject. Enclosed are two cuttings again from Vancouver, one outlining a plan of the B.C. University to get up a pamphlet on the trees, shrubs, etc. in Stanley Park, a very good idea, but as we have all known for years there is no place like Victoria for an arboretum and collection of tree plants and shrubs, why should we again wait for Vancouver to give us a lead?

The other cutting tells us the Kiwanis Club of Vancouver are going over the grove of trees from Westminster Bridge to Blaine checking over and finding out the number and kinds to be replaced. This will amount to 400 new trees which the club are planting at once.

What about our own Memorial Avenue along Shelbourne Street? Judging from its neglected and half-finished look, garnished with thistles, our memories in Victoria are indeed short and public interest is sadly lacking.

Yours Truy,
WEARY WILLIE.

CHEESE MAKING AT SODKE, B.C.

To the Editor:—A local industry, which should prove of service to the Province has lately been started at Sooke. I refer to the Sooke brick cheeses at present being manufactured at Woodside Farm. The farm, ideally situated close to the sea, is surrounded by orchards and those clover-grass fields which help to provide sustenance for a Jersey herd, the cheese being made from the milk of these beautiful animals.

The writer, on visiting the seat of the industry, was made welcome in the "temple of moist cleanliness," where he watched the process of cheese making from the moment when the rennet was added to the milk to the time the "bricks stood completed and solidifying in their wooden casings." He did not leave the factory empty-handed, as many of the "brick" were ripe and ready for sale. A number of these have since been played on the local market, and the visitor can testify to their excellence. May the enterprise have the success it merits.

PUBLICITY BUREAU

To the Editor:—Your editorial of October 20, supported by the Publicity Bureau's large display ad. of the 22nd, claims that "362,000 tourists visited this city during the season and that they spent between them approximately $7,240,000." "With a civic expenditure of $24,500 results obtained have been remarkable.

Before any criticism is made on these figures, and before another so generous a grant is made to the Publicity Bureau, I think it is due to the taxpayers who have put up the "civic expenditure" that the bureau should publicly supply us with following information:

(a) What were the methods employed to count the 362,000 tourists? This figure is so surprising that I should like to see the number of tourists for the different days throughout the season. If this number is correct it should be officially confirmed by the transportation companies.

(b) An explanation of the "$20 per capita per holiday." Does this mean that it costs a tourist $20 per day to visit Victoria? Is this the result of carefully tabulated figures?

(c) Who got the results? If the enumerators have not been counting "dummies," business men should be found ready to admit strictly tourist results in their several businesses which would approach the total you have stated.

If the bureau and the beneficiaries expect the taxpayers to keep this thing going they will get together and give us a real business man's report. This will require signed statements from the different firms benefited. The "double check" is always of great importance where correctness of figures and future grants are concerned.

SUPERFLUITIES SALE

To the Editor:—Please permit a final word regarding the Rotary Club's superfluities sale in aid of the Solarium for Crippled Children, and other charities.

The success of the sale depends almost entirely upon the securing of sufficient articles to satisfy an assured demand. The ladies of Rotary, under the leadership of Mrs. James Fletcher, have undertaken this task by working among their friends, and reports which have come in indicate that the appeal has been well broadcast and that the response will be generous.

Rotarians themselves are not only giving time and effort but goods also, among which might be mentioned an Overland car, two tons of coal, two cords of wood, two typewriters, a beautiful dressed doll, and a varied assortment of other articles.

A well-supplied home-cooking and candy department will be conducted by Mrs. T. R. Myers.

Many of the stall-holders at the Public Market have agreed to contribute a general assortment of fruits and flowers, poultry, cured meats, garden produce, etc., to make an attractive selection.

The committee invite the general public of Victoria and vicinity to contribute goods for this sale, also to attend the sale, where they will find many useful and interesting things to purchase.

The appeal is as wide as the spirit of charity, and as sincere and as deep as the sympathies of our people. Let each and everyone contribute according to his means and take his satisfaction in the gleams of gratitude from the eyes of little crippled children.

The sale takes place on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday next, November 2, at the showrooms of Mr. Thomas Plimley's new garage at the corner of Yates and Vancouver Streets.

Goods may be left at any time at the place of the sale, or will be called for on application to the Rotary Club office, phone 10 or 3209.

PERCY WATSON,
Chairman, Rotary Committee.

PUZZLED

To the Editor:—In common no doubt with many of your readers, I have perused with much interest the text of the judgment handed down by the Hon. Mr. Justice Martin in the McCabe cause celebre—a judgment that, but for one line, is clear and intelligible despite the penchant of the learned judge for the ponderous phrase and the multiplied quotation. The exception to lucidity is the line used by His Lordship in conclusion: "acehltnom omitedtmoolans shah sh." Would you kindly oblige the mere lay readers with a translation, or some clue to the authority cited and the intent of the citation and oblige.

RUSSIA AND PROPHESY

To the Editor—In your issue of the 27th you ask me for further explanation:—

In the first place you have evaded to a certain extent my point on your first comment, and have also misquoted from my letter. Your comment was on Mr. Smart's statement, and your words were "very few people in the world will seriously suggest that any nation or group of nations would undertake to invade Russia," did Mr. Stuart state that anyone was going to invade Russia? That is the point. I stated in my letter that no British Israelite would make the statement that any hostile power was going to invade Russia, whereas you quote me in yours of the 27th as saying "that no British Israelite would make the statement regarding the total eclipse of Russia, which is very different.

By the destruction of the armies of Russia who come up against Jerusalem does not necessarily mean annihilation of the Russia people.

I only know that it is stated in Ezekill xxxviii "that a great company, a might army shall come up against my people Israel, as a cloud, to cover the land, etc., and the result as we read in verses 21 and 22, will be every man's sword will be against his brother, and I will plead against him with pestilence and with blood, and I will rain upon him, and upon his bands, and upon the many people that are with him, an overflowing rain, and great hailstones fire and brimstone. There are many passages in Scripture telling us of the destruction of the enemies of Israel when they come up with their armies against Jerusalem in the [illegible] battles fought in [illegible] compare with what to come [illegible] tions will be totally different.

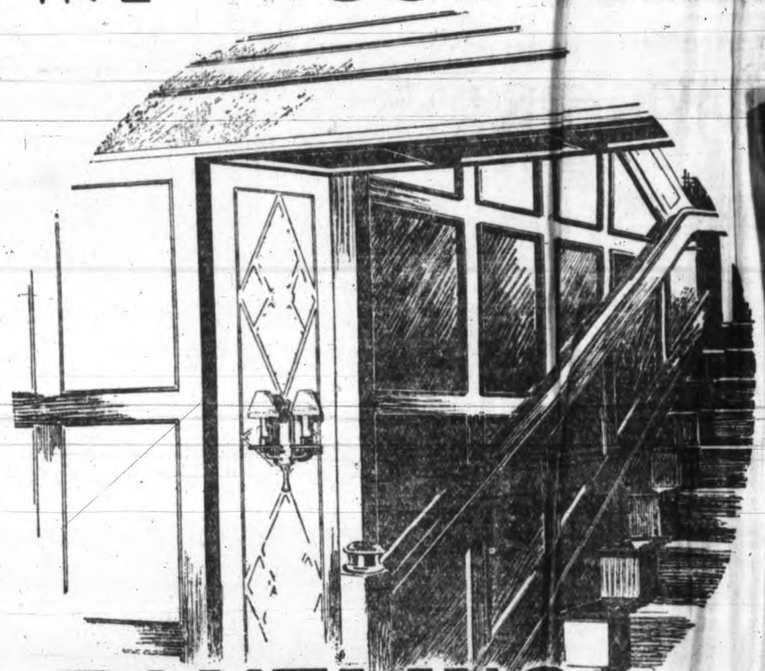
FINE WOODWORK!



PANELING in B. C. Woods

Paneled walls are enjoying a new wave of popularity in modern homes . . . supplying a rich, dignified setting that makes rooms easy to furnish!

Paneling need not be expensive, because the beautiful woods of British Columbia, growing right at our very doors, are finding favor for this purpose. You can have extensive choice from Douglas fir, red cedar, pine, larch, hemlock. The distinctive grain of some of these woods is superior even to the imported hardwoods, and they may be finished as effectively as the latter.

The striking paneled hall and stairway in the illustration is one of many ways this interior finish may be handled.

GREAT ALE SUPPLY POURED INTO SEWER

Newark, N.J., Nov. 1.—A million dollars' worth of ale was poured into a sewer here yesterday after having lain for more than sixteen years in the vaults of the brewery of Christian Feigenspan Inc. The ale was disposed of to free the property of government supervision and because it was becoming acidious.

At one time the ale was about to be loaded in tanks for shipment to the Heinz pickle plant in Pittsburgh when H. J. Heinz, said to be an ardent prohibitionist, suddenly issued orders to his subordinates to have nothing to do with it.

In all there were 303,552 gallons, the largest stock of pre-war ale in the United State, it was believed.

The possibility of disorder was averted by carrying out the entire process yesterday within the cellars of the brewery on Fleming Avenue.

LADNER BRIDGE PLAN IS GIVEN SUPPORT

South Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Endorsation was given the proposed Ladner bridge by representatives of the Provincial Legislature and municipalities affected at an open meeting last night of the South Vancouver Board of Trade. A firm belief that a bridge erected on the plan designed, linking the Delta by a short route with Greater Vancouver, would be no menace to navigation on the Fraser River, but would tend to encourage agricultural and industrial development, was expressed by A. D. Paterson, M.P.P. for Delta, and George A. Walkem, M.P.P. for Richmond-Point Grey.

Mitchell Funeral Held in Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Funeral service as simple and unaffected as the lives they led was conducted to-day over the bodies of John J. Mitchell Sr., internationally known banker, and Mrs. Mitchell, who were killed Saturday in an automobile accident near Linertyville, Ill.

While relatives and friends gathered at St. James Episcopal Church for the service the great financial and business institutions Mr. Mitchell headed did business as usual. Officials of the Illinois Merchants' Trust Company, of which Mr. Mitchell was the head, explained because of the nature of its business and the national and international interests, it would be unfair to the bank and to its customers to close for even part of the day.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN'S BALL ON THURSDAY

Tickets Going Rapidly For Big Affair at Empress

Tickets are going very fast for the University Women's Club ball on Thursday, November 3, with only two more days in which to purchase them, hence, so patrons are advised to get them at once. This ball is to be the most delightful one of the season and judging by the enthusiasm and rush for tickets it promises to be a very large affair. The music for the ball is unusual. It includes all the latest dance favorites and also Charlie Hunt has prepared several novelty features just for this ball in the music in which he is to be assisted by Bob Webb. Not a minute will be allowed to drag from the first dance to the last.

The novelties will begin with the first dance. The Russian Ballet School features are beautiful and are enough in themselves to insure the success of the ball. The decorations are artistic and Mr. Young, the lighting expert, has preperad some beautiful effects in colored lights which will be thrown on during the novelty dances. The big surprise of the evening, Boo hoo! the Bear, has been definitely assured and he will be at the ball in all his glory. Toronto has a very special novelty that is quite beautiful to behold. Tickets are still on sale at Fletcher's and Litchfield's stores.

Hallowe'en Social—This evening at 8 p.m. at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church a Hallowe'en social will be held. There will be fun and merriment for old and young and those who attend will have the dual satisfaction of having a jolly evening and at the same time helping the organ fund of the church.

Camosun Chapter I.O.D.E.—The regular monthly meeting of Camosun Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held at the headquarters on Wednesday, November 2, at 2.30 p.m.

PIONEER WOMAN IS DEAD AT RIPE AGE

Mrs. Wm. Dempster Collapsed Suddenly To-day; Here 42 Years

Collapsing as she was arising from bed at the family residence, 1823 Chestnut Avenue, early this morning, Mrs. William Dempster, a pioneer resident of Victoria, passed away at the ripe age of ninety-one years. Her death brings to a close a happy married life lasting over sixty-one years.

The late Catherine Dempster was born in Dalhousie, Nova Scotia, on April 8, 1836. It is nearly fifty years ago since she and her husband came to California, attracted by the stories of the West. After a few years in the Southern state, they came to Victoria forty-two years ago and had made their home here ever since, except for intervals on the Skeena River, where Mr. Dempster was a pioneer in the canning business, with which he was associated for over thirty years. On October 3, 1925, Mr. and Mrs. Dempster celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary.

For over forty years Mr. and Mrs. Dempster have been pillars of the First Presbyterian Church, now the First United Church. In spite of her great age, Mrs. Dempster retained all her faculties and was unusually alert mentally. As recently as last evening she listened with much enjoyment to a concert over the radio, and when she retired was apparently in her usual good health.

She is survived by her husband, also three brothers, D. S. Morrison of Vancouver; Malcolm Morison of Victoria, and Capt. N. K. Morison of Pender Harbor.

The remains are reposing at McCall Bros. Funeral Home pending funeral arrangements.

The party commenced at 5 o'clock, and just before supper the grand march took place, Mrs. R. Lloyd, Miss MacLaren, Mrs. Boden and Mrs. Toye acted as judges of the fancy costumes, and found their task a very difficult one.

Mrs. Harris was general convener of the entertainment and Mr. Walter Peddle was master of ceremonies.

After supper a programme of recitations, pianoforte solos and dainty dances was given under the direction of Mrs. Elliott. Those taking part in this were Thelma Booth, David Ewing, Dorothy Ralf, Reginald Porter, Phyllis Elliott, Dick Cummins, Lilian Toye and Pearl Cunningham.

Games and a treasure hunt were then indulged in followed by dancing. The committee wish to thank all those who helped to make the affair the success it was, and particularly the judges, also Mr. Skidmore and Mr. Ockwell for their kindness in supplying the music.

Hallowe'en Recital At James Bay Was Greatly Enjoyed

James Bay United Church was crowded last evening when an enthusiastic audience listened with appreciative interest to the dramatic recital by Miss Theresa M. Siegel, who read the gripping and humorous story, "The Fortune Hunter." Other artists who assisted in the very attractive programme were Dr. W. W. Bryce, violin solos; Mrs. T. C. Phillips, vocal solos; Mrs. Southern and Miss G. Stubbs, vocal duets. Ira Dilworth acted as accompanist. Rev. Thomas Keyworth, the pastor, was in the chair.

Prior to the concert a Hallowe'en party was held in the basement of the church when a large number of children entered with much merriment and laughter into the games and stunts provided by E. Rolls. Fruit and candy was distributed to the children at the close of the hour's entertainment.

Little Jean Osgood and June Fulton, pupils of Miss Mona Jewell, danced several dances in costume, which were so much enjoyed by the patients. They were repeatedly encored. Mr. Osgood kindly brought his gramophone and manipulated the records for the little dancers. A part of the male glee club also gave several fine songs. Mr. Simpson, Mr. Veals and Mr. Fanthorpe in solos, Messrs. Demes, Raine, Ireland, O'Niel, Wetherall, Ross, Curb, Veals and Fanthorpe in quartettes, Mr. Simpson, conductor, Mrs. Pierpoint, accompanist. All these numbers were heartily encored, with a request that they come again soon. Seven or eight of the members were present to attend to the comforts of the patients and to serve tea and cakes to all.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope warded to this office will bring a personal reply.

TIME FOR COD LIVER OIL AGAIN

Now that Autumn is here again and the babies are exposed to less sunlight, the letters are pouring in asking for instructions as to the proper amounts of cod liver oil for infants of various ages.

Cod liver oil is given to children from early infancy as a routine measure. It is a preventive of rickets, a nutritional disease caused, it is believed, by a lack of certain essential vitamins. Cod liver oil may be given three times a day in very small doses, four or five drops for the baby of two or three months and this amount may be increased to one-half teaspoonful three times a day as the child grows older. If the child is suffering from an active case of rickets the amount will start with five drops per day, which is increased by one drop each day until the child is taking three teaspoonful daily, divided into three doses. The oil may be given before or after a meal. If the baby is given this oil early in life he will seldom rebel against it. Older children will. The oil may be given preferably in some fruit, juice other than orange. It is a shame to spoil what is such a useful fruit by putting cod liver oil in it.

FEEDING PROBLEMS OF INFANTS

Mrs. W. writes—"I have twins who weighed a little over six pounds at birth, and now at four months weigh over fifty pounds. They have been nursed and are given a complementary feeding of three ounces of milk, three of water and one teaspoon of maltose.

After nursing them I feel very weak and I don't know how I can increase the bottle feeding now. I would also like to give them cod liver oil and want to own the right quantity for each, but when can I give them a little gum cracker with milk?

ANSWER

Your method of feeding has certainly been as successful as the twins are unusually large, especially for twins and considering their birth weight. The formula for the whole day at their weight age would be: twenty-two milk, seven boiled water and four and a half level tablespoons of maltose. You could prepare this amount, divide into twelve bottles and use this amount for both twins, a bottle for each feeding. This would mean half as much nourishment as you decided and the other half would be timed from you. Doubling the amount would give you the full amount from the bottle.

I am sure you would find the leaflet feeding, from now on, very best for you. If you will send a stamped addressed and stamped envelope addressed for feeding leaflet and cod liver oil leaflet these will give you information about those subjects. Cod is given, rather than graham crackers, to babies of five months.

AT THE THEATRES

"UNDERWORLD" IS CAPITOL SCREEN OFFERING TO-DAY

Many crook stories have been filmed, some of them good, others of lesser quality, but it has remained for Paramount to give the motion picture public a masterpiece which is true to life and constructive in its treatment.

The picture is "Underworld," an amazingly vivid and thrilling story written by Ben Hecht. It had its local premiere yesterday at the Capitol Theatre and will run for another five days.

Briefly, the story recounts the violent adventures of a group of men and women of criminal instincts in a metropolitan city. It shows gangland in its true colors. The characters have a distorted viewpoint toward life but they possess human qualities, too, that actuate their desperate acts and color their loves, feuds, and depredations. There is regeneration for only two of the characters, Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent, a man and a girl whose underworld associations have been brought about by strange circumstances and who finally find "the right way."

George Bancroft, as a gang leader is a huge, roistering barbarian who lives by violence and dies the same way. Fred Kohler, a rival gangster, is a savage bandit, second only to Bancroft. The grimness of the picture is lightened by Larry Semon's spontaneous humor.

The direction of Josef Von Sternberg, under Hector Turnbull's supervision, is consistently clever.

On the stage at the Capitol Theatre this week the management are offering three exceptionally fine vaudeville attractions, which include Ted Morris, an exceptionally fine eccentric dancer, Leo Couriville, the boy who sings songs you like, and the Steelar presentation introduces Kathryn Brown and Company of artistic supreme, in a novelty surprise offering. The concert orchestra will also be featured.

"THE POOR NUT" IS PLAYHOUSE SCREEN STORY NOW PLAYING

Jane Winton plays the feminine lead opposite Jack Mulhall in Jess Smith's production for First National, "The Poor Nut," at the Playhouse this week.

Charlie Murray is cast in the role of the chief comedian. He has the part of an athletic trainer at a "fresh water" college.

MARIE PREVOST IN "MAN BAIT" PLAYS AT COLUMBIA HERE

Betty Francisco, the former Follies beauty, who plays an important role in Marie Prevost's current star production "Man Bait," showing at the Columbia Theatre, has taken a fling at practically every type of characterization since entering the pictures.

She is playing the part of a salesgirl in a large department store in "Man Bait." As the pal of Miss Prevost, of the glove counter, she has one of the most unusual parts of her screen career.

With Kenneth Thomson, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Adda Gleason, Louis Natheaux, Eddie Gribbon, Miss Francisco and Fritzi Ridgeway in the supporting roles Miss Prevost is well supported. Donald Crisp directed the film story which was adapted by Douglas Z. Doty from the stage play of the same name.

Harry Langdon, star of "His First Flame," has been connected with every type of amusement enterprise—even to the lowly medicine show. He has been with stock companies, circuses and minstrels, but scored his greatest success, before coming to the screen, in vaudeville. He is now at the Columbia in "His First Flame."

STAGE FAVORITES AND FEATURE FILM ON COLISEUM BILL

Another good bill is being offered at the Coliseum Theatre this week; and is in keeping with the 100 per cent policy of the Coliseum management. The opening act of the vaudeville bill is little Maureen Grute, a pupil of Miss Violet Fowkes. Miss Grute is a very clever little dancer and never fails to please the audience. Next on the bill is a sketch entitled, "The Man Next Door," which is written around a telephone complication. In the cast are George Durham, Peggy Lewis and Will Marshall. Closing the bill is Rosette Lee, offering violin selections. On the screen is:

The course of true love ran anything but smoothly in the old pioneer days, judging from "The Covered Wagon" a James Cruze Paramount production which is showing at the Coliseum.

Will Banion, hero of the story, is under a cloud because Sam Woodhull, who was with him in the army during the war in Mexico, accuses him before the wagon train people of theft.

The great wagon train of 1848 sets out for Oregon. Molly Wingate, the heroine, is loved by both Woodhull and Banion. She favors Banion but will not marry a man under a cloud. But during the journey, Banion saves her life several times and is finally enabled to prove his innocence.

"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT" COMING TO ROYAL

Allan Pollock, in a scene from "A Bill of Divorcement," which will be the stage attraction at the Royal Theatre for two nights, November 11 and 12.

DOMINION SCREEN SHOWS HIGHLAND DRAMA OF ACTION

Lillian Gish in the stern setting of wars of Highland clans—in the majestic splendors of ancient Scottish castles—in settings that blend the legend and romance of Scotland with the grim details of its turbulent history—this is the Lillian Gish of "Annie Laurie," latest vehicle of the famous star, now playing at the Dominion Theatre.

It is a story of human souls; a romance of love as great as the huge settings in which the story is told; it is a historic drama that eclipses anything of the kind seen in years—all the more wonderful because it deals with a people never before seen on the screen.

The ancient Scots, with their court intrigues—their implacable clan warfare, and their delicate sentiment underlying the ever-present lust for battle—these are reproduced with startling fidelity in the big Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spectacle.

Famous old castles, including historic Maxwelton, were reproduced. Hordes of kilted warriors struggle; gaily caparisoned courtiers in the king's antechamber plot untold villainy—and through it runs the glorious story of the love of Annie Laurie and Ian MacDonald—a love that changed the course of history, centuries ago, and unified the Scottish nation.

Norman Kerry is seen as the hero of the romantic spectacle; a fighting romanticist. Hobart Bosworth is the grim "Wolf of Glencoe," the implacable old chief of the men of Glencoe. Brandon Hurst is the villainous Breadalbane and Creighton Hale the treacherous Donald. David Torrence, Russell Simpson, Patricia Avery, Joseph Striker and other well-known players are ideally cast under the direction of John S. Robertson.

The story is based on actual history surrounding the Glencoe Massacre, when the Campbells and the MacDonalds struggled for supremacy in one of the strongest conflicts in all history. Josephine Lovett, the author, utilized this episode in history as the background for a stirring drama that might almost be classed the film epic of Scotland.

NEW YORK SUCCESS COMING TO ROYAL STARRING POLLOCK

The "Bill of Divorcement" besides being the outstanding dramatic sensation of three continents, and holding the record for runs in New York and London, has the distinction of having been more discussed by debating societies, drama leagues and associated coteries interested in the theatre than any play of recent years.

It was stated in the social columns of one New York journal that after the departure of this play from the city, hostesses and guests would have to rack their brains to find a topic of comparable interest. Victorians will have a chance of judging the debatable points when the play is presented by Allan Pollock, who will play the part in which he made such a sensational success on Broadway, at the Royal Victoria Theatre on November 11 and 12.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking a quart of water each day; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. (Advt.)

MANY ENTRIES FOR WELSH FESTIVAL

Medals and Prizes Donated For Saturday's Musical Contest

The competitive musical festival to be held under the auspices of the Welsh Society at Amphion Hall, Gordon store, Yates Street, next Saturday, November 5, with afternoon and evening sessions, promises to be of a very high calibre. From the number of entries sent in for the different events, very keen competition is anticipated in both the musical and the elocution sections of the programme.

A very interesting competition to take place will be the Welsh recitation, also a Welsh solo, for which a challenge cup has been donated. Winners of the nine open events will be presented with medals specially made with a Welsh emblem in the centre.

The adjudicators for the competitions are as follows: Music, Philip Hughes; elocution and literary, Donald A. Fraser and Prof. E. S. Farr; works of art, Miss Bird and D. Evans.

The executive of the Welsh Society wishes to acknowledge the following generous donations of prizes: J. Rose, jeweler, challenge cup; Mrs. D. Spencer Sr., four medals; Mrs. Croft, Discovery Island, one medal; D. C. Hughes, two medals; J. Vaughan Roberts, two medals; W. A. Evans, one medal; J. H. Owen, one medal; W. A. Gurney, one medal, and R. Thomas, one medal.

"ALADDIN'S LAMP" COMING TO ROYAL FOR FOUR-DAY RUN

The Royal Theatre will present, starting Wednesday, November 2, for four days and Saturday matinee, "Aladdin," the first Old Country pantomime ever brought to Canada. The entire production, with scenic effects, dancers, principals and costumes complete, will be presented here on precisely the same scale as in London, England. All-Canada Touts, have brought this company over here. They gave the Dominion an opportunity of hearing the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company and Matheson Lang in repertoire, and who are also bringing Sir John Martin-Harvey, Seymour Hicks and other famous English theatrical stars here for tours of the Dominion this season.

Numerous inquiries received from those who have never witnessed Old Country pantomimes, indicate that there is a wide-spread misapprehension as to the real nature of pantomime entertainment; many people being under the impression that it is devoid of spoken lines or of songs.

This, of course, is quite wrong. The English pantomime of to-day is remarkable for the number and timeliness of its songs and the diverting nature of its dialogue, as well as for the charm of constantly changing scenes and costumes; while dancing is and always has been one of the Mother Country's strongest features, as the company of fifty (including the famous Dancing English Beauties) will demonstrate next week.

The pantomime presents the well-known story of Aladdin and his wonderful lamp, familiar to children of every country. There are, of course, numerous variations, and it is one of the essential principles of pantomime that topical allusions and tit-bits shall be plentiful and appropriate. The songs in this particular production include several charming lyrics. The music is of a high-grade, and the comedy will be found sprightly enough to please the most blase theatre-goer.

Grim Pyorrhea gets 4 out of 5

All around you are people doomed, through carelessness, to contract Pyorrhea. Four persons out of five past forty (and many younger) are its victims.

Carelessness—neglect of teeth and gums—is the cause. And the results, too often, are loss of teeth, neuritis, rheumatism, or other serious diseases.

And yet, if you start in time, it is so easy to prevent. See your dentist twice a year. And start using Forhan's for the Gums.

Used regularly and in time, Forhan's prevents Pyorrhea or checks it. It firms the gums and keeps them healthy. It protects teeth and keeps them white.

Ask your dentist about Forhan's, the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Liquid, used by dentists in the treatment of Pyorrhea.

Safeguard youth and health! Start the morning-and-night Forhan habit, today. Teach your children to use it as health-insurance. At all druggists', 35c and 60c.

Mother of Eleven Children Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Her Interesting Experience

Buckingham, Quebec.—"I am the mother of eleven living children, and my baby is five months old. I am only 38 years old and I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and my nerves. I knew of it from my sister, Dame Edouard Bellefeuille of Ramsayville. For five years I was in misery and was always ready to cry. Now I am so happy to have good health. My daughter, who is 18 years old, has also taken it and will be happy to recommend it to all young girls."—Dame WILLIAM PARENT, Box 414, Buckingham, Quebec.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will give you relief?

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, over 250,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. C

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY
Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment to Bring Swift Relief

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food, causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive, burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach linings. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of Indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from Indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants.

The time used is Pacific Standard, for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt.—To find the depth of water on the sill of the drydock at any tide, add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

NEW YORK-TO-ROME FLIGHT IS PLANNED

Four Men Hope to Make Aeroplane Voyage Late In December

New York, Nov. 1.—Another proposed transatlantic flight this year is announced.

C. Sabelli says he and three companions will attempt the 4,500-mile air jump from here to Rome late in December, and that they hope to land in the Eternal City on New Year's Day.

Sabelli, an Italian war ace, cabled Premier Mussolini of the project, saying:

"I consider it my duty to inform you first, as my Duce, that my transatlantic flight in December will be in a type of Bellanca plane especially constructed for Winter trips, thereby securing first place for Italy and Fascism."

SOUTHERN ROUTE

The aviator said he would follow an all-southern route, by way of the Azores, the north coast of Africa and Sardinia. Besides himself there will be a navigator, a radio operator and and expert to record and compile scientific data gathered on the trip.

The plane, which will probably be named the New York, is being constructed by Giuseppe Bellanca, the Italian-American designer and builder of the monoplane from New York to Germany by Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine.

Confirming Sabelli's announcement, Bellanca said the plane would have a cruising speed of 116 to 120 miles an hour.

Sabelli said he had waited until now to make his announcement, because of the fate which overtook the first attempt at a flight to Rome this year when amos D. Hill, Lloyd Bertaud and Philip A. Payne were lost. He did not wish to detract from the glory of those three men, Sabelli said.

The aviator is thirty-one years old and is married. He became a United States citizen last March.

BANK CELEBRATES 110TH BIRTHDAY WITH NEW RECORDS

Montreal Has Been a Backbone of Canada in Its Growth to Power

One hundred and ten years ago tomorrow the Bank of Montreal was founded.

To-day the institution has more than 600 branches in Canada and Newfoundland and it own offices in United States, Britain, France and Mexico.

The bank's 110th birthday coincides with the establishment by the bank of a new record, its total assets now being in excess of $810,000,000, which is not only the highest figure in the annals of the bank, but establishes a total never before attained by any bank in the history of the country.

The great institution, which is the Bank of Montreal, started in a small office in rented premises in Montreal with a paid-up capital of $350,000. To-day its paid-up capital amounts to $29,916,700, with a reserve account a like amount.

The founding of the Bank of Montreal, it was recalled to-day, also established the beginning of the Canadian banking system.

The Victoria branch of the Bank of Montreal was established in 1891. That at Vancouver was established in 1886 following the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The important part the Bank of Montreal has played in the building up of Canada is realized when it is remembered that it was to the Bank of Montreak that the principals in the enterprise of building the C.P.R. from Montreal to the Pacific Coast looked for leadership in the financing. In the face of widespread misgivings not only regarding the practicability of the railway itself, but also as to the agricultural prospect between Manitoba and the Rockies, the Bank gave the project its moral and financial support and subsequent events have completely justified the Bank's directors in supporting an undertaking which has contributed more than any other to the settlement and development of Canada's vast western region.

The Bank of Montreal has been the banker in Canada for the Canadian overnment since 1863 and the Government's financial agent in Britain since 1893.

The records of the Bank, which are intact from the beginning, are indelibly associated with the history of Canada. The Bank of Montreal has seen this country rise from a few poor and struggling colonies to its present position of power and international importance. It has been associated with the establishment and upbuilding of innumerable pioneer enterprises, and through it all has held the unshaken confidence of successive generations. In fact, from a date fifty years prior to Confederation, it has been bound up intimately with every phase of the financial, commercial and industrial life of the country.

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Student registration at the University of British Columbia has scored a new high record. October closed with a student total of 1,750, over 200 more than the next highest record of any former year for the same date.

Prohibition Men Are Scored When Mariner Fined

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—Capt. Ira Eaton of Santa Barbara, was fined $1,000 yesterday as the sentence on his recent conviction of liquor smuggling. The court suspended payment of one-half the fine for one year on the provision the other half should be paid promptly.

In fining Capt. Eaton the Federal court not only refused to impose a jail sentence, but severely criticized the methods of prohibition agents in entrapping the veteran seaman. The court intimated leniency was being displayed because of the entrapment angle.

Capt. Eaton was arrested last April by Federal prohibition agents who, the testimony indicated, entered into a conspiracy with him to sell liquor. He was accused of bringing a load ashore when captured.

Gloucester, Mass., Nov 1. — The practice of "throwing out the life-line" is dying out.

In its stead come radio and the airplane.

For now, when a ship flashes its distress signal from a reef off shore, a radio-equipped amphibian airplane picks it up and almost immediately carries out the life-line to the marooned passengers and crew. That insures speed in rescue work that the old-fashioned gun could not attain.

This method of rescuing persons on stranded ships is now in practice here and at Cape May, N.J., and has already proved its superiority over the old system.

The United States Coastguard has installed radio receiving and transmitting sets on several of its airplanes, and these are used not only in combating smuggling operations, but in rescuing persons on endangered ships.

In this new method of rescue, the line is wound around short upright sticks on a framework resembling a chessboard, the line or rope being so arranged as to pay out freely. One end of the line is carried through clips on two masts, planted on the shore about 200 feet apart. The airplane, flying low, picks up the line from these upright poles and carries it seaward to the disabled vessel.

A special pick-up is used on the airplane for making contact with the life-line, suspended between the two poles on the shore. The shipwrecked crew gets the life-line from the airplane. Then, one by one, the persons aboard the storm-swept ship are pulled ashore in safety by means of the breeches buoy and other convenient life-saving equipment.

Thus radio, in a new guise, again demonstrates its value in saving life and property. The new method of bringing out the life-line to a distressed ship is largely dependent upon this rapid means of communication for its effectiveness.

Distress signals from disabled vessels are either intercepted directly by radio on the amphibian airplanes or the SOS is picked up by a shore radio station and relayed to the radio operator on the airplane. Speedy and certain rescue ensues.

STRICT QUARANTINE MAINTAINED AGAINST IMMIGRANT PESTS

Bethesda, Md., Nov. 1—A farm a little to the north of Washington is the Ellis Island for immigrant plants.

This is a strict Ellis Island, so strict that not a single foreign plant can enter this country directly. It enters quarantine here, gives birth to a vigorous infant and is destroyed without seeing any more of America.

By such means as this does the United States protect its fruits and vegetables from becoming infested with pests that might be brought over by new immigrant plants.

The means by which Uncle Sam conducts this quarantine is so thorough that there is no possible chance of a new sort of pest to enter the country and start another campaign of destruction here. But this is only the beginning of a general quarantine organization.

TO SAVE MILLIONS

The beginning is being made with citrus plants. It is recognized that we must have new immigrant plants to enlarge our present production, but it is important that these be absolutely pest-proof. Citrus canker, a dangerous bacterial disease, cost several million dollars for its eradication in the Gulf states.

So the detention station, an Ellis Island for immigrant citrus plants, has been erected here.

The foreigner is first placed into an insect-proof propagation house, with specially designed ventilator screens and oil moats to prevent the entrance or exit of insects. They are handled by men whose clothes, tools and hands have been disinfected. They are fumigated and held in separate cages until new growth appears suitable as bud wood.

If this new growth proves entirely free from infection, it is grafted on vigorous home-grown stock held for this purpose in an "isolation ward" of the quarantine greenhouse.

IMMIGRANT PLANT DESTROYED

When these new buds are well established and growing, there's no need for the original immigrant plant. So this is dropped into a covered container, thrown into a furnace, soil and all, and destroyed. The screen cage that confined the plant is thoroughly sterilized and prepared for the next immigrant.

To be sure that there will be no infestation, the first budded plant is merely a step toward a second grafting on new, clean stock. If these second buddings are free from infection they're admitted to the main greenhouse. But they can't be released to the country before they have gone through a rigid inspection over an extended period of detention.

"The aim of this procedure," explains Walter T. Swingle of the Bureau of Plant Industry, "is to make certain that no portion—root, branch, bark or bud—of the original imported plant is ever released from quarantine. Only new, clean plants, regenerated by bud transfers, come forth after this vigorous regimen."

STRIKE ILLEGAL

Mexico City, Nov. 1—A Federal arbitration committee has decided that the recent strike called by the workers on the Southern Pacific Railway of Mexico was illegal. The labor leaders have been notified that the workers have been granted seventy-two hours in which to return to work or be dismissed. The committee has also decided that the railway company may reduce the working week in shops to five days.

CHEMAINUS SHIPPING

Canadian National barge No. 2 in tow of the tug Fraser entered with empties on Sunday and cleared Monday with a full consignment of lumber.

New Supply Ship For Alaska Waters

Seattle, Nov. 1.—A motor patrol boat and supply ship for Western Alaska and Bering Sea waters is under construction in the J. C. Johnson shipyards at Port Blakeley. The new craft designed by Coolidge and Manson, Seattle naval architects, will cost approximately $70,000 when completed in the Spring. She will be christened The Crane.

The last ship of the survey fleet to return from the North, the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey Ss. Explorer, is due in Seattle this afternoon from Southeastern Alaska waters. The Explorer has located an uncharted rock, which is but fifteen feet under at mean low water, in Hood Bay, which was struck by the Alaska steamship Cordova.

The Ss. Robert Dollar, under charter to the Canadian American Shipping Company for a voyage to the United Kingdom and Continent will shift to Olympia Wednesday to take on additional lumber, and completes her record cargo of 6,200,000 feet of lumber at Everett.

Handsome Trophies Won At Fox Show

Valuable Collection of Silverware Presented to Successful Exhibitors; Trophies From Winnipeg Fur Auction Sales Company and Provincial Government Among Most Handsome Presented at Annual Exhibition

The most successful exhibitor at the recent Fox and Fur Show held in Victoria last week under the auspices of the Vancouver Island Silver Fox Breeders' Association was the Gilt Edge Fox Farm of Saanich. Out of nine cups offered for competition at the show the Gilt Edge Farm took five. This is considered excellent by the owners and officials of the farm who are more than pleased with the fine collection of silverware now in their possession.

The cups and trophies that are now in their keeping are the silver statue of "Victory," the Provincial Government Challenge Cup, the Vancouver Island Silver Fox Breeders' Association Cup, the F. W. Francis Cup and the Miller Higgs Cup.

Other cups won at the show were the Vancouver Island Silver Fox Breeders' Association Cup for the best Alaskan specimen, which was won by A. Hanson of the Hollyhedge Fur Farm at the Gorge, and the Gilt Edge Fur Farm Cup offered for the fox catching contest. This was taken by E. G. Sery, who took a fox from the kennel to the judges in twenty seconds. The President's Cup, donated by Rev. Montague Bruce, the president of the association, was won by H. F. Dack of Victoria, for the best silver female fox. D. W. Trotter of Calgary took the cup presented by a member of the association for the best pair of Canadian registered foxes owned in British Columbia.

This collection of handsome cups and trophies was the finest offered for any fox show sponsored in British Columbia and next year the collection promises to be increased both in numbers and in beauty. Already Mrs. J. C. Pendray has promised a cup to be competed for in 1928.

TUMBO FOX FARM ONE OF LARGEST IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

From 300 to 500 Animals Running Comparatively Wild Over 300 Acres

One of the largest and most varied exhibits at the recent Fox and Fur Show held in Victoria was that of J. A. Hird and Son of the Tumbo Island Fur Farm. The exhibit comprised the showing of three different kinds of fur-bearing animals—silver, black and blue foxes, mink and muskrat. Mr. Hird also raised chinchilla rabbits, although none were seen at the show. Mr. Hird, senior, was at one time chief game inspector for the Provincial Government of British Columbia, and in that capacity received a thorough training in the rearing of fur-bearing animals. Mr. Hird's son, Jack, is assistant manager and looks after the farm on the island while his father is manager of the Vancouver office.

The Tumbo Island fur farm is one of the largest fox farms in British Columbia. It is situated in the Gulf Islands about thirty miles from Victoria, and is an island of about 300 acres in area. Running comparatively wild on the island are anywhere from 300 to 500 animals. There are five miles of forest trails running through the Tumbo land and scattered over these trails are thirty-two feeding stations. In this way the foxes have the run of the whole island. With the feeding stations on the trails the animals do not have to return to the pens for their feedings. To a Times representative the other day, Mr. Hird briefly sketched the managing and handling of his large farm. He stated that foxes were easily raised. Mr. Hird says that 250 pounds of cooked food is eaten by the animals every day in addition to other delicacies which they may pick up in their rovings over the island. They are fed cereal in the

URGES CO-OPERATION IN FOX FARMING

Director of Fox Association Says Government and Farmer Should Co-operate

DR. D. A. DUNBAR

"With the combined co-operation of the average farmer and the Department of Agriculture of the Provincial Government of British Columbia fox raising will become one of British Columbia's greatest industries," said Dr D. A. Dunbar, a director of the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association, in which he represents British Columbia, to a Times representative.

Dr. Dunbar is also manager of the two fox farms on the Mainland—the Great West Fox Farm and the Great Pacific Farm, and therefore had a thorough knowledge of the industry. Dr. Dunbar was practically brought up in the industry. He was born on Prince Edward Island and remembers when the fox on that Island was first domesticated. "Yes, the animals grew up right around me," he said.

SEES INDUSTRY DOUBLED

Dr. Dunbar told The Times he believed that in the next three or four years the industry here would be doubled. Not only by that time would the farmer be interested, but also the hard-headed business man. But the men who should be interested now were the farmers, because there was money in it for them. They should know and study the fox, and be able to tell good pelts from bad ones, just as they knew a thoroughbred horse from a non-pedigreed one. They should understand their peculiarities just as they understood those of their cattle and any other livestock which they raised. Unless this were done fox farming could not become a profitable industry.

VANCOUVER IS READY TO PLAY WITH VICTORIA

Amateur Hockey Series With Interior Teams Cannot Be Arranged

Victoria City Club Formed and Senior Amateur League Suspends Operations

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—The hockey season will open December 5 in Vancouver, this date having been set Monday night at a special meeting of officials.

It was decided that the proposed interleague matches with up-country teams will have to be abandoned, owing to the inability of Coast teams to get away. If possible, interleague matches will be played with Victoria, at least six games being contemplated.

Any chance of the Victoria Senior Amateur Hockey League arranging a schedule for this Winter disappeared last night when the league decided to "pass out" and leave the way clear for something new. For the past few seasons the league has been staging a series of games before very small crowds, the only real interest being aroused when outside teams came here.

When the league decided to close its books those who attended the meeting last night promptly put their heads together and decided to bring on something new. They organized the Victoria City Ice Hockey Club and, after a lengthy discussion, struck a slate of provisional officers. Lou Tweedie, who has been identified with amateur hockey for a long time and is at present secretary-treasurer of the B.C. A.H.A., was named president; Harold Hewlitt, secretary-treasurer, and Alex. Straith, Jack Sanders, Chet Dowman, Stan. Stanyar and Ross Oatman as members of the committee.

INTERCITY GAMES

It is the hope of the new club to arrange an intercity league with Vancouver. This matter was broached to Vancouver some time ago, but recent reports from the Mainland conveyed the information that Vancouver was endeavoring to bring about a series with the Interior clubs. If the Interior leagues allow their teams to travel it is anticipated that they could be persuaded to come to Victoria. The only other clubs that could be brought to the capital would be from Portland. Heavy expenses are, however, involved in bringing teams from the Rose City. The committee of the Victoria club will investigate all these prospects and see what can be done.

Should the Interior clubs be brought to Victoria for games, the fans would see some of the best amateur teams in the Province in action. Last year the Trail club captured the British Columbia championship, defeated Alberta, but lost to Fort William, Thunder Bay champs, in the final for the Western championship.

MEETING ADJOURNED

No doubt these games would prove a big drawing card as, with the passing of professional hockey in the city, the fans are anxious to see good simon pure teams in action.

Last night's meeting was adjourned until November 10, when the committee will render a report on the success made in arranging intercity games.

As there will be no senior league it is expected an intermediate loop will be organized.

HORSE RACING

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Fred M. Grabner's four-year-old Chicago winner of a long string of handicaps on Western tracks this season, centered home four lengths in front yesterday in the $5,000 American National Handicap at Arlington Heights, the feature of the closing day of racing in Illinois. Twenty thousand visited the track for their last glimpse of the thoroughbreds this year.

Yeddo, daughter of Man o' War, was second, and Smiling Gus, third. Chicago's time for the mile and a quarter was 2.03 3-5, only one-fifth of a second slower than Old Rosebud's record for the same distance in the historic Kentucky Derby.

The winning tickets on Chicago returned the $2 investor $3.92, with $3 even to place and $3.02 to show. Yeddo and Smiling Gus, coupled as the C. E. "Boots" Durnell entry of the Three D's stable paid $3.16 to place and $3.06 to show.

Earl Pool was up on the winner.

New York, Nov. 1.—Fine Champagne, under perfect handling, scored in a drive in winning the Hastings Handicap, mile and seventy yards feature at Empire City yesterday. She closed at 8 to 5 after touching a high quotation of 2 to 1. Gormond, an outsider, was second, and Juggler, odds-on favorite, third. Juggler ran away below his best race, quitting to a walk in the last quarter. Fine Champaign won by a head and Gormond get the place by five lengths. The time was 1.45.

The fourth race at Latonia, six furlongs for two-year-old fillies, went to Storm Signal. Golden Tinted was second and Claret Cup third. The time was 1.12 2-5.

Hoppe In Lead

New York, Nov. 1.—Willie Hoppe led Otto Reisel's, three-cushion billards champion, 120 to 103, at the end of the second block of their 720-point match last night.

Hoppe took the first block, 60 to 58, in 6 innings, having a high run of 7 to Reisel's 5. The challenger also won the second block 60 to 45, in 40 innings. Both players had high runs of 7.

ONLY IRISH REF. NEEDED TO MAKE FIGHT ALL-IRISH

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Only an Irish referee is needed to make an all-Celtic affair of the ten-round battle to-night between Mike McTigue and Mickey Walker, each fighter tracing his ancestry back to the Emerald Isle, too. Walker, the present wearer of the middleweight crown, will come in at about 167 pounds, to 174 for McTigue, who used to be champion of the light heavyweights.

Both have their eyes on the 175-pound title, and for Walker, it would mean a new record in American boxing history, for he has already held two world titles.

Garrison To Meet League Leaders In Wednesday Soccer

Chance of Four-cornered Tie For League Leadership; Bays Tackle Navy

Tommies Should Give Bakers Hard Game; Tillicums Meet Saanich United

Rennie & Taylor, league leaders in the Wednesday Football League, will have strong opposition to-morrow when they meet the husky Garrison eleven at the Royal Athletic Park.

Rennies are sitting in top place with a two-point lead over the Garrison, Hudson's Bay and Tillicums. Should the Tommies come through with a victory and the Bays and Tillicums win their matches then a four-cornered tie would result for the league leadership.

Last week Rennies had to be satisfied with a draw in their match with the Hudson's Bay. This was the first game this season that the Bakers had not won. The Garrison were held to a draw by the Tillicums last Wednesday.

RENNIES STRENGTHEN

The Bakers will have two of their last year's players back in playing togs to-morrow. "Spud" Merifield will be out to take his regular place on the forward line while Gilbert will play fullback along with Frank Tupman.

The Tillicums should not have any trouble wresting two points from the Saanich United. The clubmen will field their usual eleven and the United will find them a tough team to oppose. This game will be played at the Beacon Hill lower ground.

In the other match at Beacon Hill the Hudson's Bay will oppose the Navy. Both these clubs added points to their standing last week, the Bays holding Rennies to a draw while the Navy defeated Saanich.

All the games will start at 3 o'clock.

The team will be as follows:

Tillicums—Sallaway, Burns, A. N. Other, Davis, Clarke, Sewell, Cann, Hamar, Bissell, Wright and Rigby.

Dempsey to Settle Lawsuits Before He Thinks of Fighting

New York, Nov. 1.—The possibility that Jack Dempsey would seek the heavyweight crown of Gene Tunney next July appeared yesterday as the former king of the pugilistic realm had a lengthy conference with Tex Rickard in the Garden. Although neither Rickard nor Dempsey would admit that the talk concerned affairs of the fistic game, the report was current that the promoter sought Dempsey's agreement to meet Tunney early in the outdoor season as a protection against the plans of Jim Mullen, Chicago promoter, to match the titleholder against a logical opponent in the Midwest some time in September.

Rickard's agreement with Tunney is said to call for a title defence some time before September 1, 1928.

LAWSUITS FIRST

"I have not signed to fight anyone," Dempsey said, "and I haven't even decided whether or not I will enter the ring again. That must wait until Spring, when the lawsuits of Jack Kearns and Teddy Hayes have been settled."

Dempsey admitted, however, that in case he does try again to lift the crown Tunney won from him at Philadelphia and defended successfully in Chicago, the battering will be done under Rickard's direction in accordance with an agreement tender entered into some time ago. "Just now," Dempsey said, "I'm here to fight Jack Kearns's suit for $333,333.33, that opens in Trenton, N.J., November 15. We're going to the mat to settle once for all whether he has any money coming to him from me."

Rickard Not Going To Quit For Awhile

New York, Nov. 1—Tex Rickard may be at odds with some of the directors of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, but the veteran promoter has no idea of severing his connection with the organization or relinquishing any of his authority as president and general manager. He made this clear yesterday upon his return from a vacation.

Faced with an assortment of reports of difficulties with his associates, even of rumors that he would be "ousted" from his controlling position, Rickard dismissed them as "Laughable."

His long term contract which has more than twenty years yet to run, would be a sufficient barrier to any break in relations Rickard pointed out, even if it was desired either by himself or by a majority of directors. Boxing observers, nevertheless, are convinced that a decided rift has occurred.

Godfrey Wins His Seventeenth Bout In a Row By K.O.

Giant Negro Battler Flattens Promising Detroit Scrapper in First Round

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—George Godfrey, bulky negro battler of Leiperville, Pa., knocked out Tom Sayers of Detroit in the first round of a ten-round out at the Arena last night.

A terrific left hook to the jaw sent Sayers down for the count two minutes after the match started. Godfrey battered the Detroit boxer about the body from the opening gong and had him hanging on the ropes when the finishing punch was delivered. Sayers failed to land a blow on the negro.

Sayers was Godfrey's seventeenth victim by knockout. The Detroit fighter had knocked out seventeen of his opponents in his last twenty-six bouts.

Sayers's share of the purse was ordered held up by Chairman Frank Weiner of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, pending an investigation of the match by the boxing board. Weiner would not comment, but many spectators said it appeared to them that the Detroit fighter had not been trying and "laid down" when Godfrey hit him.

THE AMATEUR QUESTION

To the Sports Editor: The officials of the Victoria local board of the A.A.U. of C. appreciate the fairness and correctness of your brief reply to the letter of Ray Parfitt, challenging the action of the A.A.U. of C. in dealing with the recent offences against amateur rules among Victoria baseball players.

Mr. Parfitt makes an admission where he states that he has been a member of the amateur organization for many years, yet knows so little about the reasons for its existence, the method of its operation or the source of its authority.

He unconsciously pays the Union a compliment when he says "one would go a long way to find a city where the amateur rules are adhered to more closely than here." Perhaps if he were to examine the case, he might find this condition to exist because of the Union rather than in spite of it. His admitted lack of correct information is the more lamentable because he holds to so many ideas which are wrong.

He suggests that there are many others in like position to himself, and if this is so the Union seeks the opportunity to explain and justify its actions and authority. For this purpose an open meeting has been called for Friday next, November 4, at 8 p.m. at the Y.M.C.A. Mayor Pendray has been asked to preside so that an impartial discussion of athletic affairs may be assured. The Union officials will be prepared to give desired information, and it is hoped that the result will be, as Mr. Parfitt desires, that we should "cut out all petty quarrels and unite to keep Victoria on the sporting map."

An open invitation is extended to all who are interested in clean amateur sport properly conducted.

ARTHUR MANSON,
Chairman, Victoria Local Board A.A.U. of C.

Chess Game Drawn

Buenos Ayres, Nov. 1—The twenty-second game for the world's chess championship between Jose Capablanca, the champion, and Alexander Alekhine, Russian challenger, was drawn last night after eighty-six moves. Alekehine now has won four games and Capablanca two and sixteen drawn. The winning of six games is necessary to obtain the championship.

Amateur Union Heads Call Special Meeting

Athletes Asked to Attend Gathering on Friday at Which Union's Attitude Will Be Explained and Questions Answered in Effort to Clear Up Misunderstanding in Local Circles; Meeting To-night to Consider Reply From Baseball Heads

Although the officials of the local board of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada have been under direct fire for the past two weeks, following their discovery of "irregularities" in baseball circles, they are game for two more meetings this week. To-night they will gather at the Y.M.C.A. to consider the reply from the Victoria Amateur Baseball League and on Friday night they have called an open meeting at the Y.M.C.A. to which all athletes are invited. At the meeting on Friday the officials will be prepared to explain their actions and enlighten an athletes on questions which may disturb him.

No one seems to know just what may develop out of the meeting to-night. It appears that the Victoria Amateur Baseball League has decided to let the local amateur board "fish for themselves." The amateur heads wanted the baseball league to furnish them with the names of the players who appeared in the exhibition game between the Sons of Canada and the Old-timers, but outside of a few confessions made by players themselves the line-ups still remain a mystery. As far as the playing of two athletes under assumed names in the Burnaby-Sons of Canada game goes that matter has been passed along by the local amateur baseball league to the B.C. Amateur Baseball League. The sooner the required information is in the hands of the amateur union the quicker the decision will be given. At present a number of athletes are under suspension and, while one of them has been permitted to play in another sport, Canadian rugby, still others, who wish to play in basketball, find the entrance barred.

MAY SERVE GOOD PURPOSE

The meeting on Friday night should serve a good purpose. His Worship the Mayor has been asked to preside so that an impartial discussion of affairs may be held. The athletes of the city are invited to attend so that they may ask questions, which seem to bother some of them now. The Amateur Union officials will be present prepared to answer any question presented and also to explain how the situation in local athletics has arisen. It is hoped in this manner to clear up the misunderstandings which have arisen here.

Figures In Trade

MILTON GASTON

In an effort to strengthen his pitching staff for next year, Bucky Harris, Washington manager, recently traded Outfielder Earl McNeely and Pitcher Dick Coffman, to the St. Louis Browns, for Milton Gaston. McNeely whose hit in 1924 won the world's series title for Washington, saw little service this year, while Coffman is a rookie hurler. Gaston has shown promise of greatness.

People who are lost always walk in circles if they have no guiding landmarks. This is because of the inequality of their strides.

LYNCH LOSES DECISION

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Henry Lenard of South Chicago received the decision over "California" Lynch, Pacific Coast bantamweight, after a ten-round bout here last night. Lenard floored Lynch for a count of three in the fourth round, and led most of the way.

Good Beginning

"Did you see any signs of law and order when you were in Chicago?"

"There were some 'Keep Off the Grass' signs in the parks."

Babe Ruth Hit More Homers Than Twelve Other Major Clubs

Statistics Show Phenomenal Record Achieved by Bambino During Past Season

When Babe Ruth made 60 home runs during the season of 1927, to break his best previous effort of 59 made in 1921, he also established another record that it is doubtful if any slugger will equal.

In making those 60 home runs, Ruth performed the almost inconceivable feat of driving out, all by himself, more circuit swats than did the entire squad of any other American League club, with the exception of New York, of course.

The Yankees made 158 home runs of which Ruth, Gehrig and Lazzeri contributed 125, Gehrig adding 47 and Lazzeri 18 to the 60 the Babe accounted for. The next closest club to the Yankees was the Athletics with 56, then St. Louis with 55 and Detroit 51. Cleveland, with 26, had the lowest mark in the homerun column.

ONLY THREE BETTER

In the National League, only three teams made more home runs than Ruth's marks of 60. The Giants knocked out 109 four-base swats, while St. Louis made 84 and Chicago 74. There are short fences in all three parks, taking something off the premium that ordinarily goes with home run hitting.

Thus, Ruth, all alone, made more home runs than the combined personnel of each of 12 other major league clubs. Lou Gehrig, with 47, had a higher mark than the combined slugging of seven of the major league clubs.

Ruth continued merrily on his way in the world series, getting two more home runs in four games, even a trifle better than his average for the season, 60 homers in 151 games. His entire total for the year, Spring training and barnstorming games included will be close to 100.

Birmingham, England, has a canine curfew law. Dogs must be kept off the streets after dark to prevent their barking and howling.

COBB NOT READY TO ANNOUNCE HIS RETIREMENT YET

Detroit, Nov. 1.—"I have not announced my retirement from baseball officially or unofficially," Ty Cobb asserted to the Associated Press here last night in reiterating his denial of published statements that he is through with the diamond game.

Cobb said he planned to leave here to-day for Philadelphia where he will confer with Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics. He declined to state if the discussion would have a bearing on his plans for the future.

Spider Kelly, Famed For His Great Bout With Joe Gans, Dies

Man Who Might Have Been Lightweight Champion Passes After Operation

Rochester, Minn., Nov. 1.—Death today tolled off the final count for Spider Kelly, once an outstanding contender for the prize ring's lightweight championship.

Ending a fight of several years against disease, Spider died in a hospital here from a blood clot on the brain, after an operation for mastoid trouble. He was fifty-five years of age.

Kelly, whose true name was James Patrick Curtin, was brought here ten days ago from Tucson, Ariz., where he had lived several years. His body will be sent to San Francisco for burial.

HELD GANS EVEN

Fights that won Kelly fame involved a twenty-five round bout with the then champion Joe Gans in New York, when the Spider gained a draw, although critics gave him an edge. Gans then was at the heights of his career.

Kelly turned professional while still under twenty. A number of his fights were for forty rounds, and he often had a gruelling bout every month. For forty years his home was in San Francisco.

Born in County Kerry, Ireland, Kelly came to this country when ten years old.

Hagen's Fine Golf Makes Him Favorite For Pro Golf Title

Walter Has Two Great Rounds and Leads Qualifiers by Three Strokes

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1.—Walter Hagen, four times professional champion of the United States, proved his right to contend for the title this year, scoring a 141 here yesterday to lead a field of sixty-five professionals in the qualifying round of the national professional golfers' tournament.

Hagen added a sparkling 69 to a morning round of 72 to lead the field. Hagen was three strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, A. Alcroft of Youngstown, O., and Joe Turnesa and Gene Sarazen, New York, who finished with 144. Al Espinosa, Chicago, was two strokes behind them with 146. Johnny Farrell ties Espinosa at 146. Francis Gallet of Wauwautosa, Wis., and Jack Farrell of New York scored 147's.

HAGEN'S FINE SCORING

Hagen scored his brilliant total after he had some tough luck in a trap in the first nine of the morning round and gave two over par. He was by far the steadiest man on the course, however, and came home in one under par to give him a 72 for the morning. In the afternoon he assaulted the first nine again and scored two birdies for a 33, two under par. The last nine he negotiated in a par 36.

John Perelli of Feather River Inn, Cal., gave the gallery one of its biggest thrills when he negotiated his morning trip out in 33, and came back in 38 for a par 71. Perelli is twenty years old and playing in his first big tournament. He attracted a gallery in the afternoon, and rewarded it with a 44 on the first nine, but shot a par 36 in the last nine for an aggressive 151 and a place among the qualifiers.

Match play started to-day and each match goes thirty-six holes.

Those who qualified were as follows: Walter Hagen, Albert Alcroft, Joe Turnesa, Gene Sarazen, Al Espinosa, Johnny Farrell, Harry Cooper, Francis Gallet, Mel Smith, M. F. Dutra, Bobby Cruickshank, C. Guest, Ed. Dudley Van Nuys, Charles McKenna, John Golden, Harold Long, Bob Shave, William Klein, T. Armour, James Gullane, Roland Hancock, Tom Harmon, Ralph Beach and Charles Koontz.

MAYORALTY FIGHT IN INDIANAPOLIS ENDS

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 1.—Claud F. Megley, appointed by the Indianapolis City Council following the resignation of John L. Duvall when he was convicted of violating the Corrupt Practices Act, reigned alone as chief magistrate of Indianapolis to-day. His most active contender for the place, Ira M. Holmes, an attorney, withdrew following an adverse court ruling yesterday on his motion to dissolve an order restraining him from interfering with Megley.

When Duvall resigned, his wife, as city controller, claimed the post of mayor. She tendered her resignation fifteen minutes after naming Holmes as city controller, and Holmes then laid claim to the vacated office. Superior Judge Joseph M. Milner, in a ruling, declared Holmes "is not now and never has been entitled to the office of mayor."

MAURICE McCARTHY GAVE JONES HARDEST MATCH OF CAREER AT MINIKAHDA

Many times we are asked questions which we find difficult to answer, and about the most difficult one which has confronted me is the one most often repeated: "When was the hardest match you ever played in?"

On the very face of it and at first blush, there appears no sufficient reason why that query should be hard to answer. It would be so easy to pick out the game that was won or lost by the smallest margin and say that that was the hardest. Indeed, I have little doubt that such an answer might be accepted as the absolute fact, but I am certain that it would not be true in my case.

To my mind the playing of an exceedingly hard match involves the expenditure of an abnormal amount of energy, both mental and physical. A hard match demands the output either of intense effort until the break comes, or of sustained effort throughout, and I think the final score has very little, if anything, to do with it.

HAD BEATING EASY

To begin with, let me say that there is nothing hard about losing a match by a large margin. To be beaten by Jess Sweetser at Brookline eight and seven was one of the easiest things I ever did, especially in view of the golf Jess shot that day. When you start out to take a beating like that, although you never quit trying, it doesn't take long for the ordinary perspicacious mind to realize that "it ain't no use." After you become five or six down the nerve strain disappears and there remains only the physical necessity of going through the motions with as good grace as possible, a comparatively easy task.

After all, it is the strain, the fierce uncertainty, which bears down, and, regardless of the score, a match is hard so long as the ultimate result remains in doubt. So, notwithstanding what others have written and in spite of the apparently comfortable lead which I always had, my match with Chick Evans at Minikahda was one of the toughest I can remember. The morning round was satisfactory in every respect, but in the afternoon I found myself struggling from the very start. Evans began to play very well and steadily and I soon began to lose confidence in my shots. To be six up and to have that lead cut to four in the first five holes is bad enough, but when you begin to feel that your control is slipping it is infinitely worse. For, you know, you can't keep going on in par figures and wear your man out. The match never assumed a comfortable aspect until Chick drove into the woods at the seventh and overplayed the green at the eighth, allowing me to reinstate by six-hole advantage.

ALL RIGHT WHEN PLAYING WELL

But a close match when you are playing well is not the very worst thing imaginable. There is excitement, of course, and hard work, but there is no real worry and suffering, partly because there can be no lasting regret for a defeat when the game is well played.

Playing Watts Gunn at Oakmont, we had the most spirited kind of a battle for thirteen holes, and while I realized throughout that my situation was desperate, we were both playing so well that we had no thought to give to ultimate victory or defeat. I suppose we realized that a break had to come for one of us, but we felt that whoever got it had earned it.

I cannot remember putting out so much actual labor to win a golf match as Maurice McCarthy extracted from me in the first round at Minikahda. In the first place, I did not want to go out in the first round above all things, and I did not want to be beaten when I was playing so badly. If McCarthy had been playing the fine game of which I know him to be capable, I am sure I should not have minded being put out by him. But he wasn't and to be one down to a forty-one out was not pleasing in the least.

HARDEST OF ALL

Almost floundering as I was, in vain efforts to get back on to a semblance of form, and having to hole two sizable putts at the twelfth and thirteenth to have an even chance to win, I think I spent the most uncomfortable morning of my golfing experience. I should put this down as the hardest match I have ever played and the one in which I was luckiest to come out ahead. Nothing in the world could have won that match for me except what happened, a partial collapse of my opponent on the last three holes.

So the matter of whether or not a match is a hard one, in the sense I choose to regard it, resolves itself into a question of mental composure and satisfaction pure and simple. If I am playing well and am hitting the ball with confidence I do not regard any match as particularly hard regardless of the score. I suppose that is because there is no feeling of shame nor any sense of having failed to live up to expectations when one has done his best and lost. But to look back upon a match and to realize that it was lost only through stupidity or wretched playing is most disheartening, and it is thinking about this sting that is going to come afterwards that makes matches hard work.

CITY ELECTIONS ARE HELD IN ENGLAND

Results Watched for Their Bearing on Next Parliamentary Election

London, Nov. 1 (Canadian Press Cable).—Municipal elections are being held to-day for every city or borough council in England except the London County Council. One-third of the members of the various municipal councils, except London, retire at the end of the municipal year, and the annual elections are held November 1. The members of the London County Council retire simultaneously every three years.

In seventy municipalities there are 1,928 candidates as follows: Labor-Socialists, 782; Conservatives, 590; Liberals, 306, and Independents, 250.

The Socialists are making strenuous efforts to increase their hold in the municipalities. The Conservatives are at a disadvantage because they automatically relinquish a larger number of seats this year than their opponents.

WOMEN CANDIDATES

All the parties have increased the number of women candidates compared with last year.

In the boroughs adjoining the east side of London there are several Independent Labor candidates opposing the official candidates of the Labor Party.

The political phase of to-day's municipal elections is even stronger this year than usual, each of the parties having an eye on the next Parliamentary general election. To-day's election results will be regarded as a good test of local party efficiency preparatory to the next Parliamentary contests.

the Provincial Government, Dr. Dunbar said, could give invaluable help to the industry. In its publicity booklets it should emphasize fox farming as a coming, profitable industry just as it did in regard to fruit-raising and agriculture. If this were done the industry would advance by leaps and bounds. He expected that the Department would do this as Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, in his adress before the breeders the other day, said that the Provincial Department of Agriculture fully appreciated the importance of the fur farming industry, although it was not now under the administration of that Department.

PLEASED WITH EXHIBITION

Speaking of the recent exhibition her, Dr. Dunbar said he was more than pleased with what the Island Association had done for the advancement of the industry. "The only way for a breeder to know his animals is for him to attend a show and watch the judges picking out a winner, seeing the whys and wherefores of the decision and then being able to see them in his animals. This is one of the reasons why a fox show is to be encouraged," stated Dr. Dunbar. "The one in Victoria was certainly a credit to the men and women who worked so tirelessly to make it the great success that it was. It is really remarkable to see the growth of the industry here in the last decade. Why, ten years ago such a thing as domesticating foxes in British Columbia was an unthought of idea. To-day, ten years later, it is a growing industry and in ten years from now there is no saying to what proportions the industry will have advanced to."

CLIMATE HERE SUITABLE

Dr. Dunbar said that the idea of a cold climate was necessary to the successful breeding of foxes was all nonsense. Foxes had been found to thrive just as well in warmer climates and Dr. Dunbar believed that the climate of British Columbia was excellently suitable for this purpose. "Of course, I believe," he added, "the fur industry of British Columbia to be only in its infant stages."

Dr. Dunbar gave some interesting data on the fur-producing countries of the world. Before the Great War, Russia had been the greatest producer of furs. But since then, very probably on account of the unsettled conditions of the country, she had fallen down and her place had been taken by Canada. "Canada is now the greatest fur-producing country in the world," said Dr. Dunbar in conclusion, "and as the years go by her output will increase."

INVENTORS WANTED TO CONQUER STATIC AND RADIO FADING

Washington, Nov. 1.—"There are three great stumbling blocks that inventors must remove if we are to sve maximum radio transmission andreception," declares Dr. William A. Kinnan, first assistant patent commissioner, And by this he issue a challenge to inventive genius.

While Dr. Kinnan can't fail to marvel at the remarkable degree of sensitivity of radio receivers to-day, this wonderful accomplishment, he points out, is particially nullifiedby such obstacles as static, fadingof radio signals and the absorptive effects of steel buildings and other structures.

These are the "three great stumbling blocks" to which he refers.

The head of the section of the patent office that handles all radio patents lays emphasis on the problem of wave irregularities as caused by steel structures, factory buildings and war fronts. Dr. Kinnan believes that with the growth in number of immense factories and large apartment houses the problem of wave distortion and absorption is one of increasing rather than decreasing concern. These barriers together with a surplus of broadcasting stations, he thinks, cause wave lengths to overlap and the results is endless confusion.

STATIC ELIMINATORS FAIL

"Static effects, like the poor, are still with us," declares Dr. Kinnan. The statement is significant in the light of the fact that the patent office has granted approximately 100 patents on so-called static eliminators. Yet Dr. Kinnan does not recognize any of these devices for their reputed efficacy of completely suppressing static.

Dr. Kinnan's identity with radio has been continuous from the days of the coherer and the early Fleming valve.

"Much has been done to relieve the evil effects of fading," he goes on," but the ultimate goal has not been reached.

"Receptive and amplifying devices have reached a degree of sensitiveness and perfection that is wonderful. If there is any energy at all being transmitted these devices will take their share of it and amplify it into useful signals or messages. If they are to reach their maximum in practical efficiency the disturbances must be greatly reduced."

$1,356 TAKEN BY MONTREAL THUGS

Montreal, Nov. 1.—Taking advantage of the Hallowe'en celebrations that were going on in the streets nearby, two bandits gagged and bound a Montreal street car clerk at the Westmount ticket office, last night and made off with the $1,356 in cash. The bandits wore black masks. They emptied the contents of the cash drawer, leaving a few notes which were either overlooked or dropped in their hurry.

The police were given a vague description of the banidts.

Henri Caisse, the clerk, was alone in the office when the men entered.

MAN SET FIRE TO HOSPITAL BUILDING

New York, Nov. 1.—A porter who at first posed as the hero of a fire that yesterday destroyed one of the buildings of the Methodist Episcopal Hospital, endangering the lives of 600 patients, later was identified as a pyromaniac and arrested on a charge of arson.

At the height of the blaze, while a crowd surged outside the police barriers, a five and a half-pound daughter was born to Mrs. Mary Conger, a patient in the maternity ward, and a man in the crowd dropped dead from the excitement of watching the fire.

Ernest Rhodes, the porter, who was said to have confessed he set the fire, was described by Fire Marshal Brophy as a pyromaniac who had been arrested ten years ago for arson and acquitted.

The fire was confined to a detached building of the hospital group in which the internes were quartered. The fire was under control in less than an hour.

Seventy-eight of the 600 patients were taken from the upper floors to the ground floor, ready for instant removal. Those able towalk were led from the wards and some, more seriously ill, were wheeled out on cots.

Dispute Ended by Family Reunion

Seattle, Nov. 1.—Content to have his wife back, W. R. Millar, telephone company accountant here, would drop his kidnapping charge against Garrison E. Deal, telephone company supervisor, Deputy Prosecutor Burgunder said yesterday in asking the justice court have to dismiss the charge.

Deal was arrested with Mrs. Millar in Ellensburg Friday night and charged with abduction, after the woman had dropped a note from the car saying she was being kidnapped. Deal a lifelong friend of the Millars, denied allegations he was attempting to steal his friend's wife.

morning, and a small amount of meat in the evening. Their mid-day meal they get from the feeding stations on the trails. Mr. Hird recently had installed a sixty-acre artificial lake for the use of the muskrat and beaver. A sixty-foot windmill pumps water into the cattle troughs and lake.

Looking after the foxes is a staff of four or five men, who live all the time on the island. A small herd of cows is maintained on the island. Vegetables of all sorts are cultivated and chickens are also raised. "In this way," said Mr. Hird, "we are self-supporting." The nearest Gulf island is Saturna, which is reached from Tumbo by gasboat. Frequent trips must be made to Saturna for mail and other necessary supplies.

Mr. Hird looks forward to the time when fox farming will become one of British Columbia's leading industries. He sees no reason why this Province should not become one of the leading fur-producing provinces of the Dominion. Mr. Hird also owns fox farms at Pitt Lake and on Nelson Island. Neither of these, however, compare in size to the one at Tumbo.

REWARD FOR FARMER

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The Ontario Cabinet will consider the matter of providing an honorarium or reward for Alexander Hodge, the Beeton farmer who, after a terrific fight, killed Dan Forsythe when the latter attacked him at his farm home in July last. The death of Forsythe led to an investigation by provincial police in Simcoe County, as a result of which a number of residents were convicted and sentenced for cattle stealing.

SOOKE LAKE SURVEY GIVEN YEAR'S HOIST

City Council Abandons Effort to Cruise Area Before Christmas

Re-organization of Water Committee and Return of Ald. Woodward Mooted

By a vote of eight to three the City Council tabled the Sooke Lake timber cruise issue until 1928 last night. Mayor J. C. Pendray, Aldermen P. R. Brown and E. S. Woodward voted to adopt the recommendation of the city water commissioner, F. M. Preston, who wanted rough survey of the watershed. Aldermen J. B. Clearihue, James Adam, H. O. Litchfield, R. A. C. Dewar, William Marchant, J. L. Mara, H. C. Holmes and John Harvey favored postponing the issue, and this course carried.

Alderman Woodward virtually withdrew his resignation from the water committee after Mayor Pendray had agreed to enlarge the committee to five members. Alderman H. O. Litchfield was tentatively named as one of the additional members.

One of the troubles of the water committee had been the fact that its two members had been unable to find sufficient support on a council where the majority had not studied the water questions, explained Alderman Woodward. If this objection were met by the appointment of a larger committee better work would result, he believed.

Mayor Pendray stated that he would either enlarge the present committee or else transfer the duties to another standing committee, such as the works or finance cimmittee. The point was left open for settlement by the Mayor at the next regular meeting.

JUNIORS INTRODUCE BREEZY BULLETIN

First Issue of New Chamber of Commerce Paper Out To-day

The first issue of the new, and as yet unnamed publication sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce was yesterday mailed to members and proved to be a bright minature magazine bristling with information of general interest.

As yet it has not been christened. A contest for the selection of a name is being conducted with prize of a hat for the winner or as the editor aptly states "There's a hat to put around the mind that thinks of the best one." The paper contains news of the activities of both the senior and junior chambers. There are messages from Mayor J. C. Pendray and directors of the Chamber of Commerce wishing the junior chamber and the new publication every success.

There are also a number of concise interesting news items on matters of general interest as indicated by a few picked at random as follows:

The sum of $11,000 is now being expended in the provision of additional equipment for the Hotel Strathcona.

Victorians put through an average of 82,000 telephone calls on weekdays.

Eighteen thousand, three hundred and twenty four tourist automobiles were brought to Vancouver Island this Summer by the Publicity Bureau.

At the present time Victoria College is accommodating 227 students.

Six hundred and fifty-five employees, including all departments, appear on the city payroll. Included in this total are seventy-four firemen, forty-two policemen and 257 under the jurisdiction of the School Board.

From May to September this year, it is estimated that 362,000 tourists visited Victoria and spent over seven million dollars in our city.

Those responsible for the material published and Alf. Jones, who sold the advertising for the first issue, are to be congratulated on their efforts.

APPEAL EFFORT FAILS

Vancouver, Nov. 1—Leave has been refused by the British Columbia Court of Appeal to Lore Yip, alias Londe Fong, to appeal on facts or on mixed facts and law from a Vancouver police court conviction for distributing cocaine and morphine. Magistrate J. A. Findlay sentenced the Chinese, who has been here twenty-four years and is part owner of the Sherman Hotel at 176 Pender Street East, to three years' imprisonment in the New Westminster penitentiary and ordered him to pay a fine of $200, or in default serve an additional six months. An appeal is proceeding on behalf of Lore Yip by J. A. Russell, on points of law. H. S. Wood is counsel for the prosecution.

BILLS FLOCKED IN AFTER ADVERTISING

Judge Insists Creditors Must Be Given Opportunity to Claim

In several applications for letters of administration and probates before Mr. Justice Gregory in Supreme court Chambers this morning the judge stressed the importance of advertising to give creditors an opportunity of claiming against the estate.

Setting out of the debts on the petition was not sufficient he said. Regarding a statement in an affidavit that a full and complete inquiry had been made regarding liabilities, he said opinion might differ as to what was a full and complete inquiry.

"I remember a case in Vancouver where I raised this question," he said. "The gentleman was very indignant when I suggested all creditors might not be informed. The court discussion got into the papers and inside of twenty-four hours there were claims amounting to $10,000."

EX-FIREMAN GETS TWO-MONTH TERM

Magistrate Jay Takes Hector Turner's Previous Record Into Consideration

Because he had served four years overseas and because his character then and since had been of an unblemished kind, save for one mistake which brough him into court on a charge of theft, Magistrate Jay was lenient when he sentenced Hector Turner this morning to two months' imprisonment. Turner, whilst acting as lieutenant in the Victoria Fire Department and inspecting premises in Chinatown for fire hazards, was found guilty of having stolen $105 out of a Chinese laundryman's coat. John Quon's pocketbook and all the money was found in Turner's possession and the man admitted to detectives that he had committed the theft.

Magistrate Jay summed up the circumstances of the case before passing sentence. Turner had won the confidence of his superior officers and his crime was for that reason the more despicable, His Honor intimated.

He had to take into consideration, however, the man's excellent war record and his record of service with the Fire Department, his loyalty and love for his wife and family and the high words of character praise which Patrick Sinnott, counsel, had called from various prominent men of integrity.

At the same time, said His Honor, it was dangerous to let so serious a crime go unpunished. He would punish him more lightly than would otherwise have been the case taking into consideration all the corcumstances of the matter, he said.

A third attempt to revive the issue of riding stables on Heywood Avenue was defeated at the City Council meeting last night when the council voted six to five in favor of refusing a permit. Aldermen J. B. Clearihue, John Harvey, H. C. Holmes, J. L. Mara and William Marchant would have allowed the request. Proximity to residential property was given as the reason for the rejection.

The City Council agreed last night to the subdivision of business property on View Street to make way for building extensions, on the payment of $2,500 in consolidated arrears. These would be paid, it was stated. The city will instal a sewer connection for G. S. McTavish on the payment of half the cost by the beneficiary, $100 in this case, the council agreed on a further recommendation by its works committee.

"It is one of the relics of antiquity kept for base and violent purposes in years gone by," said Alderman William Marchant, chairman of the works committee in advocating the destruction of the former city jail building, in rear of the city hall, at the City Council meeting last night. The building is to be torn down at a cost of $400, and repairs to drainage needed at the site made after the demolition has been effected.

Requesting that he be allowed to change his plea from not guilty to one of guilty, Jackson Harrison appeared in city police court this morning and admitted that he spent money which belonged to the Tip Top Tailoring Company of this city when he was in Alberni. He explained that he had to buy a license to sell the goods he carried in that own, or go to jail. Harrison was remanded until to-morrow. The informant has asked that the case against him be dismissed.

Under the auspices of the local branch of the Royal Society of St. George, a lecture on "Kipling and His Poems" will be delivered this evening in the Conservative Club Rooms, Campbell Building, by A. D. Taylor, K.C., of Vancouver. Mr. Taylor is one of the best-known authorities on Kipling, and in addition to giving a sketch of Kipling's life, he will recite a number of his popular poems, including "The English Flag," "L'Envoi" and "The Glory of the Garden."

The meeting will commence at 8 o'clock.

The cost of emergency repairs made to the grandstand at the Willows during children's school sports this year will be shared by the city and the British Columbia Agricultural Association, the City Council decided last night on a compromise settlement. The city's share will cost $139 for work that was necessary, on the advice of the city building inspector, to insure the safety of the stand during the use of the grounds. A transfer of a soldier's house with his consent was another recommendation made by the finance committee, and adopted in council.

Appearing in city police court this morning, W. C. Moresby told Magistrate Jay that while he understood he represented Grace M. Shepherd, charged with obtaining two dresses and a sum of money by false pretences, he was not absolutely sure. He has twice appeared in the same case, but was still undecided whether or not he would be retained as counsel for the woman. The attempt to arrange bail for her has failed and she awaits her hearing in the city lock-up. Mr. Moresby entered no plea for the accused nor did he elect trial. The case was remanded until to-morrow.

PAPAL LEGATE TO VISIT VICTORIA

His Excellency the Most Reverend Andrea Cassulo, newly appointed apostolic delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, will arrive in Victoria on Monday afternoon, November 14, for a three-day stay here as the guest of Rt. Rev. Thomas O'Donnell, Bishop of Victoria. The representative of the Pope in Canada is making his first official tour of the Dominion, and is entitled to a term of eight years.

The apostolic delegate will be met at the depot here by members of the clergy of St. Andrew's Cathedral and escorted to the Bishop's Palace on View Street, where the clergy will be host to him at dinner at 6 o'clock. In the evening the formal reception will be held in which the clergy and laity of the parish will join. In company with Rt. Rev. J. Leterme, V.G., His Excellency will leave the Palace at 8 o'clock with the fourth degree Knights of Columbus as guard of honor, and proceed to the cathedral, where Bishop O'Donnell will welcome him. There the papal legate will be presented with two illuminated addresses, one from the clergy of the parish and the other from the laity. After His Excellency has made his reply the proceedings will close with solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The following day His Excellency will visit St. Ann's Academy, St. Louis College, and St. Joseph's Hospital, and before leaving again for his home in Ottawa will visit, it is expected, some of the smaller parishes on the Island.

The Most Reverend Andrea Cassulo has just recently succeeded Most Reverend Peter Ci Maria, whose term as apostolic delegate expired some months ago. The new papal legate is an Italian by birth and is an archbishop in his own country.

Esquimalt Chapter I.O.D.E. — A special meeting of the Esquimalt Chapter I.O.D.E. will be held at the home of the regent, Mrs. C. P. Hill, on Thursday at 2.30, when important business will be discussed.

At the Gorge Presbyterian Church, Tillicum Road, a special service will be held this evening, 8 o'clock, when Mr. Cuthbertson, field director of the Japan Evangelist Band will speak. Mr. Cuthbertson is now on his way to Japan.

Five street lights, one each on Menzies, Belleville, Joan Crescent, Bay and Fifth Streets, were authorized by the City Council last night at the request of the light committee, under Alderman H. O. Litchfield. The work will cost $285.

Little difference will be made at the local office of the Fire Underwriters' Association by the amalgamation of the British Columbia fire underwriters and automobile insurance underwriters, effective to-day, according to an announcement made by the district manager.

The Kingston Street lawn tennis club will hold a dance in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Government Street, on Wednesday evening, November 2, from 9 to 1 o'clock. Pitt's orchestra will be in attendance and refreshments will be served. During the evening the prizes won in the open and handicap tournaments will be presented to the winners.

The former bandstand at Beacon Hill Park will be rebuilt as an aviary, the City Council decided last night at the request of its parks committee. The work will cost $250, which sum was set aside at the first of the year. The old stand has since been replaced by a new structure when the concerts were held this Summer.

Whose garden has grown the largest carrot this year? Providing no one comes forward with a bigger one, John Allan of 375 Walter Street is entitled to the carrot gowing championship. The largest carrot in Mr. Allan's patch weighed two and three-quarter pounds, and it was firm and a perfect specimen all through.

The streets traffic by-law amendments were tabled by the City Council last night for further study. Five incidental by-laws, dealing with the acquisition of property for street widening purposes, the regulation of poultry keeping within the city, the change of name of the Robert Porter Park to that of the "Robert J. Porter Park" and with slightly changed limits, were given preliminary readings.

The city will care for the upkeep of paths and lanes at Ross Bay Cemetery in the denominational areas of the cemetery, the City Council ruled last night, at the request of the parks committee. Alderman John Harvey asked for the ruling. Alderman E. S. Woodward objected on the ground that the church areas had been dealt with privately and the city was now being asked to pay for their upkeep in perpetuity. Alderman Marchant recalled a former city undertaking to that effect, and the motion carried.

B. Hunnings was fined $20 in the City Police Court this morning when charged with driving to the common danger along Douglas Street on the evening of Sunday, October 16. Constable William Richards had followed him and checked his speed at thirty-five miles an hour and more to the city from Gorge Road. Mr. Hunnings was represented by Gordon Cameron as counsel, who submitted that the speed of his client on the night in question was not excessive. He freely admitted it to be thirty-five miles per hour. His Honor thought Mr. Hunnings had been driving too fast.

ALEX. M'KEACHIE NEW HEAD OF LAWN BOWLERS OF B.C.

Local Man Elected to Presidency at Annual Meeting Held in Vancouver

Visit of British Bowlers Gave Game in Province Added Stimulus

Vancouver, Nov. 1.—Two old timers in the lawn bowling world were elected to the position of hon. president and hon. vice-president of the British Columbia Lawn Bowling Association in the persons of Frank Bowser of Kerrisdale and J. Whitacre, of the Vancouver Club.

Alex. McKeachie of Victoria was elected president of the association; H. Wright of North Vancouver, first vice-president, and R. C. Sparling of the Terminal Club, second vice-president. J. E. Baxter and W. H. Cullin were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively. H. Stewart is official umpire, and C. M. Harper auditor.

Forty delegates were present at the meeting, and the reports of the secretary and treasurer showed a very successful year. The visit of the British bowlers has had a very stimulating effect on the game, and this will be reflected by increases in the membership of the various clubs in the association, it was said.

INVITE N.Z. TEAM

The secretary was instructed to invite the New Zealand team of bowlers to participate in several games in Vancouver if they decide to come this way en route to Great Britain about the end of April.

It was remitted to the incoming executive to consider the playing rules and bring in any recommendations to the semi-annual meeting. The date of the annual tournament was changed to the second week in July in place of the third week as hitherto has been the case. Two new bowling clubs are in prospect of formation—one in Grandview and one in Dunbar Heights.

CONCRETE TALKS TO START TO-NIGHT

A course of lectures and practical demonstrations on the design of concrete mixtures will start at 7.30 this evening in the board room of the Belmont Building. They will be continued on Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the same hour. J. W. Kelly, of the Portland Cement Association's research laboratory, Chicago, will conduct the lectures, which will be under the direction of A. E. Foreman, district engineer of the Association for British Columbia. All those interested in concrete construction are invited to attend.

Last year a similar course of lectures was given in Vancouver to an attendance of about 350, and the interest displayed in them was such that they were repeated last week to an equally large attendance.

YOUNG GANGS RULE CITY FOR SINGLE EVENING

Wild Escapades Shock Home Owners and Keep Police and Firemen Busy

But Damage Less Than Usual Says Chief of Police

Young Victoria entered with enthusiasm into the spirit of Hallowe'en last night with boys and girls "all dressed up" parading the streets out for fun and with a zest for mischief. Some adults also joined the celebration, a number of ladies in one part of the city donning men's attire and bushy beards to hide their identity while they joined in the revelry.

Police headquarters, however, report that Hallowe'en, stunts and the escapades of youths in celebration were not as troublesome or as serious last night as they were last year, or in other years. Reports of explosives of various kinds, the hiss of rockets and their staccato bursting bark punctuated the evening.

Police and firemen were kept busy. Chief Fry called attention to the serious side of Hallowe'en vandalism. While an instinct for mischief prompted boys to turn in false fire alarms he thought that if they knew that every time they did such a thing they endangered the lives of men, they would desist. Generally it was thoughtlessness, not a desire to do harm, but just to have fun, which prompted boys to do such things, he said.

FALSE ALARMS

Firemen responded to a good many false alarms last night. They responded to many calls only to find a deserted corner, no sign of smoke or flame, and perhaps, a little way off, a scampering figure disappearing into the shadow. Back at headquarters the bell sounded another alarm, and they were off again.

MIGHT BE BOYS

A car theft was reported during the evening, and because it was Hallowe'en it was supposed that boys of the Foul Bay district took the automobile belonging to H. S. Skelton of Metchosin from where it was parked outside 141 Beechwood Avenue. It may, however, have been a more experienced thief, police stated this morning.

The old gate trick was perpetrated a hundred or more times last night. Some householders awoke to find their front fences pulled up and carried away. Others found various unpleasant surprises awaiting them on their verandahs, such as dead cats, neighbors' ash cans, old bottles, boots and other rubbish.

CLOSE UP SCHOOL

Automobiles passing the Quadra Street School this morning were amazed to see a veritable appearance of fortification at the doors of the big building. There was a pile of stone and lumber, logs and rubbish which effectually blocked the entrance. Presumably there are children in that district who are not fond of school, police assert.

Five hundred cigarettes and a dozen cartons of chocolate bars was the loot of a gang operating out on Craigflower Road.

Boys took a great delight in racing up behind a street car and detaching the trolley from the wire. When the operator would fix it to the overhead line again and return to the front of his car, he would discover that it was again detached, and he must stumble through the darkness to connect it again.

POLICE ON WATCH

There were special patrols of police officers on duty last night but the force was entirely insufficient to cope with the army of boys who were running wild in all parts of the city and district. In some instances police were enabled to break up gangs annoying females who had attempted retaliation upon those who had bothered them. In one instance a householder turned a garden hose on a gang of worrying youths. In the morning he found his hose, or what was left of it, stretched across the street car tracks outside his home and cut in many places by the wheels of passing vehicles. Sometimes, when gangs congregated, missiles were hurled at the homes of offending persons who had objected to the revelry, bombs on verandas and firecrackers coming through windows.

One gentleman on Water Street who lives on a house built up on a sort of terrace, opened his front door this morning about to go to town, and very nearly stepped off into space. The steps were missing!

This international gymnasium display will be held in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium on Saturday commencing at 8.15 o'clock. Archie McKinnon, physical director at the Y.M.C.A. announced this morning that ladies' swimming classes would again be started here, the opening date this year to be November 2. Registration may be made any time now at either the Y.M.C.A. or the Y.W.C.A. The classes will be held every Wednesday evening in the Y.M.C.A. pool.

Miss Audrey Griffin and Miss Gwen Bailey, both well-known local swimmers, as well as Coach McKinnon, will be on hand on lesson nights from 6 to 7.30 o'clock and will undertake to make anyone swim within a very short time. Those who can already swim will be ably coached in speed swimming or in learning new strokes. Plain and fancy diving will also be taught.

The ladies' swimming classes have always proved popular and excellent results have been achieved.

PATTULLO REVIEWS FOREST SITUATION

Minister of Lands Addresses Knights of Round Table at Supper Meeting

Stresses Need For Forest Fire Protection as Basis of Forest Conservation

Stressing particularly that protection against forest fires is the pre-requisite of forest conservation and challenging any critic to get on a public platform and advocate an extensive programme of replanting for British Columbia, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands for the Province, last night addressed the Knights of the Round Table at their supper meeting in the Empress Hotel.

Mr. Pattullo was introduced by Col. W. N. Winsby as one who probably knows more about forestry than any of his predecessors. He also congratulated the minister on the decrease in the number of forest fires this year.

Mr. Pattullo's address follows:

Forestry is an all important matter in British Columbia. Not only is it important from the dollar and cent standpoint to the industry itself, but it is important to every other phase of life and activity in the Province. How important it is, therefore, that the subject in all its ramifications should be as thoroughly understood by the public at large as is possible.

The whole problem of forestry conservation requires an enlightened and sympathetic public opinion to back up the efforts of those responsible for forestry administration. Unfortunately, there is published from time to time uninformed and unreliable, and I think it is not exaggerating to say mischievous, information and suggestion which compels correction.

MISLEADING STATEMENTS

Recently there was given wide publicity to statements of misleading character and these statements appear to be accepted as authoritative by some of the leading papers of the Province, while the opinion of competent authority has been discounted. Alarmist statements may focus the attention of the people, but they are likely to destroy perspective and render more difficult the accomplishment of the very objects which they purport to effect.

In order to drive home the alarmist viewpoint in British Columbia, frequent reference has been made to conditions in the United States. It has been suggested that on account of deforestation immense sums have been wasted through fertilizer loss, that terrific floods have been caused and rainfall seriously affected. There is no doubt that forests affect various conditions, but many wild conclusions have been drawn and used as argument to stir the public imagination which cannot be substantiated in fact.

MISSISSIPPI FLOODS

The Mississippi had its floods before there was any deforestation. The first dyking was done on the Mississippi in 1717, and in some of the early floods, the volume of runoff was as great as that of 1927. The highest water ever recorded in the Kootenay River occurred in 1894 before any active timber operations took place, and the flood conditions that occurred in the Coquitlam and at Bella Coola cannot be attributed to forest denudation, as these valleys remain almost intact.

W. B. Greeley, Chief Forester of the United States, states: "Out of every ten acres of virgin forest that Columbus discovered in America, four and one-half acres have passed under the plough; four acres have been cut over, but remain untilled; the one and three-quarters acres remaining represent virgin stand." Of the four acres of cut-over untilled land, he states that three acres contain culled timber, second growth, or young trees, enough to represent some degree of forest replacement. Only one acre is devastated.

ALARMIST VIEW

The forest area of Great Britain has gradually been reduced until it is now four per cent. of the land surface. According to the alarmists Britain should be a torrent-ridden, lightning-racked waste, unfit for human habitation.

When one's heritage is at stake it is easy to cause grave concern. Self-preservation is the first law of nature. When we see immediately along side of us a forest of giant trees, several hundred feet high and several hundred years old, to-day waving their high tops in majestic magnificence, and when in twenty-four hours we see these monsters laid low and all a scene of desolation, there is a heart wrench to which the alarmist can immediately appeal. This magnificent forest is gone never to be again. For several years it remains an eyesore and a scene of desolation, and there is fertile ground for the alarmist to work upon. Nature, however, is beneficent. The forest was mature and over-mature, and Nature could not reproduce until it was felled, but in course of time thousands of young shoots are coming up. In a few years the scene of desolation is gone and the young shoots, once started, go bounding into the air.

CONDITIONS DIFFER

The forest is a complicated association of living organisms, very susceptible to surrounding conditions. As you climb our mountain sides you will note a change from Douglas fir to hemlock, and then to balsam, yellow cedar, etc. The difference of a few degrees in average temperature or a few inches in rainfall, the difference between a north or a south slope, or difference in soil drainage or in the chemical constituents of the soil will give varying forest types and will spell disaster for one tree species and success for another.

The forest policy of the Province is one of securing the facts before undertaking the expenditure of large sums on projects which may not affect in the least our future timber resources. At the same time we are ready and prepared to take such action as conditions appear to indicate.

It was apparent in considering the forest of the future that forest fire was the most destructive agent. We had fifteen years ago not only the natural fires to contend with, but a public sentiment of "Let the fires burn—when the timber is destroyed the country will be ripe for cultivation." In the past fifteen years we have built up a protection service second to none, and through educational means there has been created a strong public sentiment for forest preservation. Last year 950 honorary fire wardens were enrolled to assist in controlling fires. The work is not yet completed and educational work will be continued until such time as every citizen and traveler through the woods will use the same precautions with regard to his fire that he would in his own home.

B.C.'S TIMBER STAND

British Columbia has an estimated stand of 350,000,000,000 feet of overmature and decadent timber. This would be sufficient to supply our present population of 600,000 people for 500 years or more. In addition to the mature timber there are areas of young stands running into millions of acres—all planted by nature and gradually building up a supply for the time when our mature stands are cut and converted to human use. The Commission of Conservation in Forests of British Columbia states: "Most of this burned over area (95,000 square miles) is growing up again to forest, but owing to repeated fires in many places is not fully stocked."

LOGGING SUMMARY

Logging is no more destructive than the harvesting of our wheat fields, and the climate and the fertility of the soil are not destroyed in the process. Careful studies have been made of the effects on regeneration of high-lead logging. These are as follows:

Douglas fir type—Of 231 areas examined four years after logging, sixty-six per cent of all areas show a stocking of 500 new trees per acre, and seventy-nine per cent of the unburned areas contained over 500 trees per acre.

Hemlock-cedar type—Of 171 areas examined, seventy-one per cent had over 500 trees per acre, and seventy-nine per cent of the unburned areas.

Sitka spruce type—Of 140 areas examined, eighty-seven per cent had over 500 trees per acre.

NATURAL REGENERATION

These figures show conclusively that for our Coast types a very large proportion of satisfactory reproduction by natural regeneration is secured. Natural regeneration is in keeping with the best forestry practice in Europe. The pine forests of the Landes, France, originally planted in the first half of the nineteenth century, are now being cut and a new crop secured by natural regeneration. The fir and spruce of the Black Forest in Germany are almost wholly secured by natural regeneration. In the Baltic, natural regeneration accounts for the major part of the forest produced. On the other hand, in Saxony, where clear-cutting and planting were practiced for years, the soil has become impoverished and the area is now designated as "the grave of artificial forestry."

In Continental Europe, where planting is done, it is almost wholly the work of women, who receive a wage of forty to sixty cents per day for ten or twelve hours of work. Does anyone seriously contend that we, with our better working conditions, can produce artificial forests for competition in the world's market with lumber grown under such conditions?

INFANT MORTALITY

Dr. Cajander, chief forester of Finland, one of the most eminent foresters in Europe, points out that as we proceed from south to north, natural regeneration is progressively more easily secured. This is in keeping with observations made in British Columbia. One of the most important factors in the failure to secure a new crop is infant mortality, due to the excessive heat at the surface of the soil. The cooler, moister regions of the north mitigate this condition.

Our Forest Service, however, is not unmindful of the percentage shown as not being properly regenerated and is now establishing tree nurseries for the production of plants to fill up this five, fifteen or twenty-five per cent., whatever it happens to be, on those areas selected and dedicated as forest reserves and held for timber production. We, however, realize that if forestry is to be a success the great bulk of the regeneration must be se-

The BLUE CAR MYSTERY

By NATALIE SUMNER LINCOLN

CHAPTER VIII

The cobblestone street leading to the District of Columbia morgue had a thin coating of ice on top of the snow, making it extremely precarious for pedestrians and equally dangerous for motor traffic. The sudden application of brakes to avoid striking a woman crossing the street caused the Whitney limousine to skid badly and brought a muttered oath from Mose, addressed to an offending Ford which had stopped without warning, while the occupants inside the limousine were thrown violently against each other. Parthenia, sitting like a mouse alongside her more voluble companion, clutched Anna instead of Mose, whose surly temper kept the cook in constant dread of his outbursts of rage. The two servants had been piled, willy-nilly, into the seat alongside the chauffeur by Detective Barlow, who had then proceeded to bundle Mrs. Ruggles, the latter's son, Harriet Whitney, and himself into the car. To Mrs. Ruggles's vehement protests that the Whitney mansion must not be left untenanted, the detective had briefly stated that he had stationed a number of plain clothes men on duty in the house, a statement which had robbed Mrs. Ruggles's cheeks of the natural color underlying her rouge.

As Mose brought the limousine to a halt in front of the old-time horse block lying at the curb near the morgue, the car door was opened by Ned Terry, whose cordial greeting received but a curt response from Mrs. Ruggles and a warm handclasp from Harriet.

"You will have to remain in the outer office," explained the assistant morgue master, as Barlow led the small procession inside the building. "When you are wanted by the coroner, you will be called. Pray be seated, madame," and he dragged forward a wooden chair for Mrs. Ruggles and placed it near the large stove by which the room was heated.

Harriet, wedged between young Ruggles and Ned Terry, was acutely conscious of the hunchback's presence. Opening her handbag, she thrust into it two letters handed to her by the postman just as they were leaving the Whitney mansion; one she knew from the weight of the envelope and its return address in the left-hand corner: "Walter Reed General Hospital, Tacoma Park, D. C.," must contain the key which she had dropped in her brother's room the day before; the other bore her name and address in her mother's familiar handwriting. She forebore opening either letter in the limousine, wishing to be alone when she did so. The clasp of her handbag refused to snap securely and Terry, observing her fumbling efforts to close it, took the bag from her.

"Let me try," he suggested, and she watched him dexterously bend the metal fastening back into shape.

"Miss Whitney, ma'am," Parthenia's husky tones sounded almost in Harriet's ear and she turned her head to the left, to find the cook standing behind her shoulder. "Does yo' all 'spec they'se gwine keep us hyar long?"

"I'm sure I don't know, Parthenia," probably throughout "the morning," Parthenia's loud groan expressed utter consternation.

"Laws, Miss; dat ar 'tective upset me so I clean forgot I'd put some pork to roas' in de oven fo' our dinner," she wailed. "Don' yo' spec' he'll let me go home an' take it out, 'stid o' waitin' hyar?"

"I'm afraid not, Parthenia," replied Harriet. "Don't look so worried; there won't be any great harm done if the meat is burned."

Parthenia subsided into her chair which Anna pushed toward her. "Sit down, niggah," the latter hissed. "We kin git some mo' pork on de way home, doan yo' see you'se 'tracting tention," and Parthenia, tardily conscious of Mrs. Ruggles's frown and the grins of several near-by policemen, maintained an abashed silence thereafter.

"Mr. Terry," the hall came from Barlow standing in the doorway of the next room. "This way, sir," and Terry hastily laid Harriet's bag in her lap.

"I'll join you later," he promised, then leaned across her to speak to Ruggles. "Did you tell Mose to come here after he found a parking place?" he asked.

"Mr. Barlow done told him," broke in Anna, whose bright black eyes and keen ears were missing nothing of the scene about her. "Want me to go out an' git him, Mister Terry?"

"No," responded Terry shortly, and with a curt nod to Ruggles who returned it with a bland smile, the lawyer left his seat by Harriet and sought Barlow in the next room.

The room used for inquests was but scantily filled, and Terry judged the few spectators were from the neighborhood; evidently the news of the preliminary hearing had not gotten abroad and the morbidly curious, who might have been attracted there by the social prominence of the Whitney family, were missing. Detective Barlow, summoned to the raised platform at the further end of the room a second before Terry's entrance, broke off his conversation with Coroner Penfield as the six men comprising the jury filed into the room. They were being sworn in by the morgue master when Barlow, handing several papers to Penfield, left the platform and took an unoccupied chair by Terry, who was sitting halfway down the room on a side aisle.

"Did I understand you to say on the telephone this morning, Mr. Terry, that you are acting as Miss Whitney's lawyer?" he inquired.

"Yes."

"At her request?"

The coroner's gavel fell on the desk before him with a resounding bang and drowned Terry's low spoken monosyllable. In the silence that ensued, Coroner Penfield explained the necessity of calling the inquest and then looked toward the jury.

"Have you visited the Whitney house and viewed the body and the scene of the tragedy?" he asked.

"We have, sir," responded the foreman of the jury, and, somewhat embarrassed by the mention showered upon him, subsided into his seat.

Penfield exchanged a few remarks in an undertone with his assistant as the latter arranged the writing materials on the table in front of him, preparatory to taking down notes of the inquest, then beckoned to the morgue master.

"Call the first witness, Hume," he directed. "Mr. Bates."

A thickset, burly man of middle age followed the morgue master back into the room, with a businesslike air, took his place in the witness chair on the platform. Hume's sharp rebuke brough him to his feet again as that official held up the Bible.

"You solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth—"

The singsong voice of the morgue master and the gruff tones of Bates were audible to Mrs. Ruggles, who had moved her chair close to the communicating door, which a belated reporter, in haste to reach the bench reserved for the press, had left open. As she turned her head, the better to catch what was said, in the inquest room, she saw Mose come inside the front door. With a quick glance about him, the chauffeur slid into a seat not far from Harriet Whitney and, crossing his arms over his chest, sank his head forward until his chin rested on his stiff collar. The housekeeper's eyes sparkled with a blending of anger and speculation. Where had Mose procured the extremely natty new chauffeur's uniform he was wearing?

In the next room Coroner Penfield waited until Bates had taken his seat on the platform, before addressing him.

"Your name and occupation?" he asked, adjusting his eyeglasses.

"William Bates," promptly; "night watchman."

"And were you employed in that capacity by Commodore Whitney?"

"Yes." Bates settled back in his chair with somewhat regained assurance; it was his first appearance as a witness in any court, and he had approached the platform with outward swagger but inward trepidation. "I worked for the Commodore for nigh ten years; in fact, ever since he come to own the house."

"Where were you on New Year's eve?" questioned enfield. "At the Whitneys'?"

Bates's weather-beaten face turned a deeper shade of red, and his hands, holding each lapel of his coat, tightened their grip.

"I stopped working for the Commodore when I went off duty on Wednesday morning, the 31st," he stated slowly.

Penfield eyed him with interest. "You mean that you quit working for him less than twenty-four hours before he was found dead?"

"Yes," replied Bates, sullenly. "That is, I didn't quit; I was fired."

"Oh!" Penfield straightened up. "And why were you discharged?"

"I don't rightly know," admitted the watchman. "I—I—" he hesitated, then gathered courage. "My wife's been ailing this winter, and with doctors' and nurses' bills, I got behind in my rent and—and—so I uster ask the Commodore for a bit in advance, now and then. And—" in a sudden burst of confidence, "I reckon that riled the housekeeper."

"What had she to do with it?"

"Mrs. Ruggles?" with a surprised glance at the coroner. "The Commodore left runnin' the house to her, the expense an' everything." Bates's tone grew grim. "She's tight-fisted, all right; wouldn't give nothin' to nobody."

Penfield considered Bates in silence for a moment. "You state you were employed by Commodore Whitney for nearly ten years; surely he would not have dismissed you for so trivial a cause."

Bates fidgeted in his chair. "Last pay day Mrs. Ruggles deducted what she said I owed for advance I'd had in October. I'm sure she took that out in November. We argyfied 'bout it for quite some time, and I got real het up." Bates passed a moist hand over his forehead and hair. "I 'specs Mrs. Ruggles repeated what I said to the Commodore. Anyway, two days after Christmas, I got this note—" he fumbled in his coat pocket and produced a much soiled sheet of writing paper, and tipping forward in his chair, handed it to the coroner.

Clearing his voice, Penfield read aloud the brief note penned thereon:

"Bates: Your services as night watchman will be no longer needed after the night of the 30th. The inclosed cheque is payment in full to seven a.m., December 31. James Whitney."

Penfield laid the sheet of paper on top of his brief case.

"With your permission, Bates," he said, "I will keep this paper for a short time. I see," he added, "that the body of the letter is in one handwriting and the signature in another."

"The Commodore signed it," explained Bates. "I know his writing, an' I 'specs the housekeeper, Mrs. Ruggles, wrote the rest." The man drew a long breath. "It kind of hurt to be turned off like that."

"Did you speak to the Commodore on the subject?"

"Nope." Bates's hands were again clinging to his coat lapels; by an effort he had remembered not to stick his thumbs in the armpits of his vest, their habitual resting place. "I was too busy hunting another job."

"Have you secured one?"

"Yes, over at Mason's warehouse; started there New Year's night."

"Indeed." Penfield glanced at the clock on the wall and back at the watchman. "Then I presume you got an entire night's sleep on New Year's eve, so that you could then start fresh on your new job?"

Bates shook his head. "I hadn't told my wife 'bout the Commodore firing me," he admitted. "She's been in a bad shape an' I was afeared worry would make her wuss; so I went out as usual that night and didn't come home 'til morning, so she wouldn't suspect nothin'."

TO-MORROW'S HOROSCOPE

"The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel"

(Copyright)

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1927

Although there is a dominant benefic aspect to-day, it is read by astrologers as rather menacing in planetary government.

There is a sign most promising to industry, read as presaging for workers employment and good wages.

Labor is subject to planetary influence making for ability to demand large compensation. Strikes here and there are presaged.

Women should be cautious and should postpone all important initiative while this rule prevails.

If the seers are right, there will be little chance for women to be prominent in the next national campaign, except as subordinates in political work.

This is read as unpromising for theatrical ventures and may be disappointing to producers of new plays.

The seers prophesy for the Winter much that is distinctive in the line of public amusement.

Motion pictures are subject to a sway of the stars not altogether favorable, although rises in prices of admissions to the best theatres are forecast.

An aftermath to an American pilgrimage abroad, which may be more or less unfortunate is prognosticated.

International affairs should be managed by diplomats representing the United States with extraordinary cleverness, astrologers declare, for delicate problems will develop.

The evening of this day should be lucky for newspapers which probably will chronicle an extraordinary event.

Late to-day the signing of leases or contracts is well directed and should bring good luck.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have an exacting year. They should beware of disputes with business associates.

Children born on this day probably will have ability in mechanical lines. They may be hard-workers and successful.

THE RULES

1—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change cow to hen, in three strokes, cow, how, hew, hen.

2—You can change only one letter at a time.

3—You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.

4—The order of letter cannot be changed.

Wall Street TO-DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs

Wall Street Journal's Review of To-day's Stock Market Over B.C. Bond Corporation's Direct Wall Street Leased Wire to The Victoria Times

New York, Nov. 1—The evening edition of The Wall Street Journal says:

To-day's market was a very spotty and confused one. For the first hour stocks showed particularly no trend at all, but moved aimlessly and lazily. Toward noon traders tried to stimulate a rally.

Steel and General Motors were rather vigorously up for about an hour, but the move had no real backbone and appeared to have been initiated by floor traders presumably acting on the theory that as active selling pressure had disappeared the line of least resistance was upward. The theory that General Motors would soon cross Steel received a setback because Steel Common was up 1⅜ on the day while General Motors was off a point.

American Sugar had another severe setback, the remarks of Mr. Babst being interpreted as confirmation of the uncertain earnings trend. Mack Trucks was heavily sold on the publication of the earnings for the third quarter, which showed $1.60 earned on the Common stock.

Strong specialities included Radio, Rossia Insurance, with American Can showing to good advantage among the industrial stand-bys. The tire stocks were sold this morning on the news that Firestone had reduced prices five per cent. Denial that Du Pont had been purchasing United States Rubber brought some selling into that stock.

Victor Talking Machine continued to be sponsored and crossed 41. On the whole, however, the market was inconclusive with the day, to-day trading element furnishing most of the activity. It appears to be evident that the outside interests in the market is doing nothing or little, and while public liquidation may be only a trickle at the present moment buying is almost entirely absent. Call opened at 4 per cent and was reduced to 3½ per cent, which was closing rate. This easier tone furnished one of the excuses for trying to rally the market.

NO REAL TEST OF MARKETING YET

H. P. Bliss to-day says: "The industrial averages made a fair gain yesterday but what seemed to us more interesting was the inability of most of the leaders to improve upon their positions after the first hour or so. In our opinion, the market had no real test yesterday. We do not think that the steadier tone means a final and definite turn about in the trend nor did it indicate the end of selling pressure.

"We believe that if the leading stocks had continued to recover in the afternoon as they did near the opening they would have been called upon to take substantial offerings, and we think that to prove the market, the industrials in which there is the greatest speculative interest, must show their ability to absorb substantial selling without weakening, to stand steady and even show rallying power in the face of active pressure.

"The turnover in General Motors and Steel was between 20 and 25 per cent of the total yesterday and it seems to be fairly evident that the market action of these two is still a reliable index of the tone of the general list.

"The collapse in American Sugar near the close once again emphasized unfavorable trade reports and furnished further ground for believing that earnings trend of this refiner as well as the earnings trend of the Cuban producers is quite unsatisfactory.

"Those who are interested in long pull speculative commitments at the present time might do well, we think, to consider the best grade oils even though the trade improvement has not yet made a public appearance."

NEW BOND FINANCING

About $35,000,000 in new bond financing is announced for this morning, headed by $24,000,000 Pennsylvania Central Light and Power Company obligations and a $4,000,000 issue of Chicago West Park commissioners. In a few days an offer of $45,000,000 5½ per cent debentures due 1952 of the Cities Service Power and Light Company, will be made.

Daily average production of crude oil in United States for week ended October 29, totaled 2,479,647 barrels, a decrease of 9,462 barrels from preceding week, according to Oil and Gas Journal.

N.Y. CENTRAL RIGHTS EXPIRE

At the close of business to-day rights to subscribe to $38,325,800 of additional stock of New York Central at $100 a share expire.

Following the warning given by Alba Johnson, president of the Railway Business Association and former president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, to the railways of the country that the carriers may face government control unless they increase their freight haulage equipment to meet the vast industrial activities he claims in sight for the near future, sentiment turned favorable towards the equipment stocks. With the year well into its last quarter, reports of the public utilities companies show that this will probably have been an outstanding satisfactory year for earnings, taking everything into consideration.

RAIL EARNINGS LOWER

Seventy-four roads show September net off production 53 per cent. Estimated earnings of all class one carriers is put at $134,000,000 vs. $145,134,516 last year.

Recent rumors that the dividend on Gabriel Snubber "A" stock might be passed or reduced were dispelled by the statement yesterday of banking interests close to the company that the regular dividend would be declared at the next meeting, November 22.

Patient holders of various leather stocks hope third quarter of leather companies indicate return to normal.

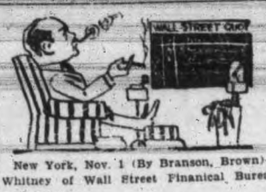
Fire in Town in State of New York

Gowanda, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Fire swept at the business section of Gowanda last night, destroying the Crawford Hotel and burning through a block of stores. The loss is estimated at $250,000.

Minneapolis, Nov. 1.—Sixty guests at the Majestic Hotel, in the downtown section of this city, were driven from their rooms last night when a fire which started in a music shop on the first floor spread to the hotel itself.



New York, Nov. 1 (By Branson, Brown)—Whitney of Wall Street Finanical Bureau to-day says:

"To the extent that a market must first demonstrate ability to stop going down before it demonstrates an ability to go up, yesterday's market may be considered satisfactory in that the advance recorded for the day mounted to approximately a point. Yesterday's market calls for a further rally to-day and possibly for a day or so more, but did not clearly demonstrate, as I expected it would, that an absolute bottom had been established.

"While the possibility remains that such a bottom has been established, it is as yet nothing but a possibility, since we have not witnessed enough additional low prices and volume on the decline which was expected Monday.

"I am inclined, in view of the day's action, to qualify the previous opinion that a solid foundation would be established by the declines witnessed Saturday and the anticipated declines for Monday. Since the anticipation for the additional decline Monday has not been realized, I do believe that we will have additional sharp rally and that this rally may carry on for several days, but I want to see more than has been shown thus far before adhering to a firm belief that a bottom has been established upon which can be built a sustained advance.

"For the moment I continue to favor General Motors, United States Steel, Mack Truck and the specialties previously mentioned. I expect a higher range of prices at least for to-day."

New York brokers' opinions to-day are.

Prince & Whitely.—There is such a large short interest in practically all of the leading industrials and in many of the rails that trading groups could easily bring about a far bigger rally if concentrated support is furnished in leading issues.

Pynchon & Co.—We do not consider that the trend downward has completed its course, and would only buy more stocks which show a progressive earning tendency at prices that yield a reasonable return.

Bache & Co.—The development of a secondary recovery period in the next day or so does not appear to be an unreasonable expectation.

Hornblower & Weeks.—We would not expect too much of the market at this time and therefore be prepared to take trading profits before a secondary reaction, which might occur Wednesday or Thursday, takes place.

Hulle & Steinitz.—Still think that in the rails, utility, oil and copper groups should be found the best purchases and that in most good market stocks in other sections, at these levels, purchases can be made for trading turns.

Bond Market

New York, Nov. 1.—Another spurt of new issues at the beginning of the month caused prices of listed bonds to ease off again in to-day's market. The day's offerings amounted to nearly $45,000,000. Continued easy money, however, combined with disbursement to investors aggregating around $185,000,000, scheduled for October, tended to limit declines in most instances to small fractions.

There was some renewed buying of high grade railway liens, notably Missouri Pacific fives, which sold at 100¾. Other leading issues, such as Chespeake Corporation fives, Erie fives, and Southern Pacific 4½s, were in supply.

North American Edison fives made up yesterday's fractional loss., but other utilities were dull. Steel issues were heavy. United States Steel fives, dropping fractionally, while Dominion Certificate fives fell back a point.

Irregularity continued to rule the foreign department. French obligations displayed a firm tendency, but Italian bonds were easy.

Considerable demand developed for Liberty 3½s, but other government securities were quiet.

Home Oil Hits 250; P.I. At New High

Home Oil shot up to a high of 250 in Vancouver to-day on the news of the completion of the deal with the Imperial Oil.

Porter-Idaho was another feature, reaching a new high of 36.

Big Missouria has begun to show the effects of the situation that was pointed out a week ago, that is the heavy selling of stock by Seattle and Tacoma interests in the B.C. markets, and the three-for-one split in Standard Mines share. Big Missouri, which has been held around 30 since Summer, eased off in Vancouver yesterday afternoon, and to-day sold down to a new low of 27¼. In Victoria the stock was offered at 29 with no bids.

Golconda held its gain of yesterday on the Victoria market.

Nickel Statement May Disappoint

Toronto, Nov. 1.—The quarterly International Nickel report possibly will not be as favorably as the public expects.

Rumors that British Distillers had bid for control caused new high prices here for Hiram Walker and Gooderham and Worts.

Alberta Pacific Gran. Canada Steamships, Famous Players, pfd., International Paper, pfd., are considered sound investments.

Jackson Manion was the active leader in the mining group on the Standard Exchange yesterday with a turnover of 170,004 shares, and advancing to a new peak at 80. Substantial buying in this issue was more than enough to offset liquidation on the part of shareholders who has decided to take their profits.

Bidgood made a new high for all time at 98. Central Manitoba touched 183.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Ltd.)

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—Wheat: The wheat market was very dull to-day with very little of importance going on. There was a little buying by exporters at the start, but the volume was quite small, and this class of business was absent after the first half hour. Offerings were light and there was very little hedging pressure in evidence. Trade appeared to be largely local and confined to spreading between the different months, which resulted in prices holding steady and within a narrow range. Scattered showers or snow flurries in Western Canada caused a little short covering but the precipitation was not heavy and would hardly interfere with threshing. The forecast is for temperatures and snow flurries.

Liverpool was slightly weaker than due. Broomhall reported no damage from frost in the Argentine and stated that both wheat and flax crops in that country were in excellent shape with warm temperatures promised. The country marketings on Monday were 5,344,322 bushels as compared with 3,754,742 last year. Monday's inspections wheat were 3,157 cars of which 2,117 graded contract. The Canadian visible increased 5,507,000 bushels which does not include stocks now crossing the lakes. Bradstreets world's visible of wheat and flour increased over nineteen million bushels for the week. There was a good demand for cash wheat principally from shippers and terminal interests, the latter being after the tough grades.

All spreads were about unchanged. With November trading 1½c under May, the buyer has the cheapest basis he has had for a long time. This does not speak very well for any large demand even at this leven. We see nothing in the situation to warrant higher levels at this time and believe wheat should be sold on the bulges. Winnipeg futures closed one-quarter up to one-half lower, November being the weakest month.

Coarst grains—These markets had a little firmer tone and closed fractionally higher. Trade volume was very small but pressure was quite light and there appeared to be a more friendly feeling toward all markets.

Flax—Very dull market, crushers continue to show no interest ubt many believe that flax prices are about low enough. Closing figures up to unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(By B.C. Bond Corp'n Direct Wire)

Chicago, Nov. 1—The wheat market was a very narrow and quiet affair. Local buying and strength in corn led to a moderate upturn early, but trade was not broad and prices remained around yesterday's close. Seaboard estimated export business at only 200,000 to 300,000 bushels. Liverpool was lower on a bearish private estimate of the Canadian crop.

Corn—There was surprising unanimity in the private reports on corn, the average being for a crop of 2,646,000,000 bushels with the amount of corn on farms much less than last year. The amount of merchantable corn was placed at 73 to 79%, the latter figure by our Mr. Cromwell. The total supply of corn available for the 1927-28 season, based on the average of to-day's reports and farm reserves, plus Bradstreets stocks, is around 2,782,000,000 bushels vs. 2,853,000,000 last year.

Altogether the trade seemed to place a bullish construction on the situation and bought corn moderately with best prices mostly held. Still think corn in debatable ground and would not sell on the declines.

Oats—Held fractional gains. Offerings light all day. Some exchanging went on between December and May at two cents difference.

Liverpool due ½ to ¼ higher.

MONTREAL RUMORS, IDLE MONEY CROWD MONTREAL

Montreal, Nov. 1.—In some sections of the market, according to seasoned observers, there is indication that the public has taken the bit in its teeth and this is just a bit disquieting to some. The abundance of idle funds is again attested to by the quick snapping up of new issues, the reception accorded the cement preferred shares being particularly remarkable.

At no time in the history of the local market has rumor regarding possibilities in the paper stocks been more rampant. To the very experienced trade, the situation is most puzzling, some market authorities seeing little but speculation in the movements, while others express belief that important developments are pending.

On the Montreal curb market, Hiram Walker reached a new high yesterday of 64 and closed at 62¾ for a net advance of three points.

(By B.C. Bond Corpn. Direct Wire)

Montreal, Nov. 1—To-day's session of the stock exchange was an uninterrupted display of activity and strength. All departments contributed outstanding features and three stocks scored highest prices yet touched. The most sensational advance was made by Wayagamack from 118 to 123, making a total gain of sixteen points in two days.

St. Maurice Valley made a new high at sixty-four and closed at the top, up 2½ points. Brompton advanced to sixty-three, a net gain of one point. This compares with a record price of sixty-four reached yesterday afternoon. A new high for the year was established by Laurentide at 115½ although later it eased off to 112 and closed with a net loss of 1¼ at 113¼.

Spanish Common recovered a point from its low of 129 and the preferred rallied to 150 from 148 early in the session. National Breweries jumped four points to a new high of ninety-eight. Lyall, which closed at 58⅞ yesterday, sold up to sixty-three and closed at sixty-one.

Dominion Glass came within ⅜ of its former record at 134, which is 2¼ above yesterday's close. Smelters made the biggest advance, jumping 10½ to 252½ and closed at 251. Dominion Bridge gained four points to 284 and closed at that price. Dominion Textile at 130 was three up and Alberta Pacific 4½ up at 49½. Nickel closed at 65 for a gain of ¾ and Alcohol showed a small gain at 37¾.

In the public utilities, Brazilian opened ½ higher at 195, then advanced to a new high on the movement at 202¼

U.S. TAX REDUCTION PLANS DISCUSSED

Secretary of Treasury Argues For Total Cut of $225,000,000 in Year

Washington, Nov. 1.—Limitation of the prospective tax reduction in the United States to approximately $225,000,000—a lower figure even than previously estimated—was foreshadowed by Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, at the opening of the tax hearing by the House ways and means committee.

Contrary to expectations, the Secretary opposed any change whatever in the remaining war-time excise and miscellaneous taxes. He argued at length for the retention of the present three per cent levy on automobiles.

The administration's programme contemplated no further reductions in the normal income rates applying to individuals, he said.

Arguing for limitation of the total tax cut to $225,000,000 in the face of a surplus of $635,000,000 for the last fiscal year and a prospective margin of $455,000,000 for this year, Mr. Mellon insisted the basis for the reduction must be the surplus available in the fiscal year 1929. This, he said, was estimated at $274,000,000.

cured by natural rather than artificial means.

MUST REDUCE OVERHEAD

The cutting of old and over-mature stands does not lend itself to a selective method of cutting. This is more especially true in our large coast species and on rough ground. The heavy equipment in logging plant requires the cutting of the maximum amount of timber per acre to reduce the overhead and make the operation commercially successful. The smaller trees on the area are often found to be of the same age as the larger ones, the small size being due to the unsatisfactory conditions under which they have grown, largely shaded by their more successful neighbors. The taking out of the better trees and leaving the others standing exposed to the wind from which they were previously sheltered almost invariably results in windthrow, which levels the whole tract. Therefore, there is little practical difference between clear-cutting and attempting to leave the smaller and inferior trees in our coast operations.

The debris left after logging is equivalent to the straw stacks which we see being burned in the wheat fields. It is material of so low a grade that at present there is no market available at a price which would return the cost of handling.

CLEANING UP NOT ESSENTIAL

From time immemorial on this coast forests have thrived and been destroyed, and new forests have grown up amongst the waste and debris of those that have gone before. The figures quoted above on natural regeneration show that this is being secured amongst the debris of our logging operations as well as when debris has been burned. Therefore, the cleaning up of debris is not essential from the standpoint of getting new growth.

In certain districts, like the Douglas fir belt of the east coast of Vancouver Island and the southern Mainland where we have a severe fire hazard during the Summer months, debris and slash add materially thereto, and it is almost a foregone conclusion that this slash will sooner or later take fire and burn. In such sections, slash burning is necessary. In the wetter belts, as on the west coast of Vancouver Island, the north coast of the Mainland, and the Queen Charlottes, the fire hazard is relatively low and the logged areas are small and more or less isolated. Here slash burning is not essential for protection. Even in these sections, when general logging takes place and large areas are cut in one place, the hazard may increase to warrant slash disposal. Figures compiled by the department show that slash burning or fires retard regeneration by five to eight years.

YOUNG TIMBER IMMUNE

Forest trees, like other living things, have their youth, maturity and old age. In youth they are growing rapidly and competing for existence. Many fall by the wayside, as the more successful, requiring more room for expansion, overtop them and shut off the necessary sunlight. During this period the number of trees per acre is reduced from one, two or perhaps ten thousand per acre to possibly ten or one hundred per acre of mature stems. After a period of maturity, in which growth slows down, the trees become over-mature, decadent and more easily subject to the attacks of insects, fungus or wind-throw. Thus a recent study by the Forest Service of the fungus diseases of balsam fir shows that this tree is relatively immune from attack up to 120 years of age. The stand of over-mature timber is from these causes gradually decreased, and it has been found that Douglas fir and hemlock of sixty to one hundred years of age contain a heavier stand per acre than the average stand now being cut at two hundred to four hundred years.

In European countries, where market conditions permit the sale of small material, the practice is to thin the stand from time to time, cutting out the ill-formed, supressed, or diseased trees and leaving just enough to fully occupy the space. The main crop is cut as soon as maturity is reached and growth begins to slow down. A notable example of such practice is the Landes Forest, another is the Black Forest of Germany. Here, however, we meet with economic conditions which permit the forest owner to sell at a profit even the twigs and leaves, and where the stumpage on the mature timber is greater than the price received for our sawn product. On the other hand, at Vallombrosa in Italy, a forest planted eighty years ago has been allowed to run wild without thinning because no profitable market could be had for the thinnings. On the Pacific Coast there is such a surplus of over-mature material, and it is so cheap, that no market exists for the inferior material and it does not pay to move it.

U.S. EXAMPLE

Twenty-five years ago conservationists sounded a warning that the southern pines would be exhausted in twenty years. This has not materialized and the southern pine states are still producing from twelve to thirteen billion feet per year; in 1924, 13,593 million feet. The present estimated stand of mature timber is 260 billion feet, the present estimated yearly growth, five billion, and the United States Forest Service estimates that the southern states can continue to produce from 7½ to 9 billion feet annually.

H. H. Chapman, of the Yale Forest School, states that the original pine forest of the southern states covered from "125 to 130 million acres. Four-fifths of this area had been cut over by 1920, leaving about 23½ million acres. Of the area cut over (102 million acres), 31 million have not restocked," leaving, after abstracting the cultivated land, very material areas on which regeneration is complete.

NO PROTECTION

C. B. Harman, prominent lumberman and a member of the Georgia Forestry Association, says: "The cut-over lands in the south, especially those on the coastal plains of North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, have become reforested to a remarkable extent. Everywhere you find that yellow pine has come back in considerable quantity and sizes, and it is a pity that forest fires have been permitted to burn unrestricted. Otherwise, stands would be two to five times larger. The growth is more phenomenal from the fact that it has come back without any care or protection, in the face of great obstacles and most disadvantageous conditions."

This second growth is already producing merchantable material for innumerable small mills which have replaced many of the large ones. This capacity to recuperate was underestimated by the conservationists of twenty-five years ago, and for that reason their prophecy has fortunately not been fulfilled.

It is a well known fact that the southern states have been most dilatory in organizing fire protection, and only during the past few years have any serious attempts been made to control fires. With the protection now afforded and with the assistance and the stable policy adopted by such companies as the Great Southern Lumber Company at Bogalusa, the future will give even better results.

B.C. SITUATION ANALOGOUS

The situation in British Columbia is roughly analogous to that of the south of thirty-five years ago. She is just reaching her stride as a lumber producer, and will materially increase that production in the next decade or two. She has still vast stores of mature timber to draw from, enough to last, at the present rate of cutting, for one hundred years, without considering second growth. These large areas of second growth are gradually coming to commercial size and will materially extend the cut. In climate, soil and species we are very favorably placed. I have shown that we are getting on our logged-over land a very satisfactory regeneration. We are in advance of the south in that, while the major part of their cutting was being done, they had no forestry organization and no public opinion for forest preservation. In British Columbia we already have a Forest Service that has gone a long way to solve the fire problem, and is now engaged on the research work necessary for a thorough understanding of the forestry problem and a basis for permanent forest policy. We have also a public sentiment growing stronger each year for the safeguarding of our future timber. With these aids, we may feel assured that the future of forestry in British Columbia is bright indeed.

EXPORT QUESTION

Closely allied with forestry and the forest-waste problem is that of export of unmanufactured material. I do not think that there is anyone who would not like to see all our raw materials manufactured at home to the highest point of refinement. At the same time, it is true of every newly developing region that they do export quantities of raw products. British Columbia is an importer as well as an exporter of raw products. The Ioco Oil Plant and the B.C. Sugar Refinery are examples of raw products imported for manufacturing here. We even import quantities of logs for sawing in our own mills, which may surprise some people.

But there are unanswerable reasons why a certain amount of export of raw logs must be permitted. The lumber market, to-day is one demanding largely Douglas fir. Cedar and hemlock are by-products used in shingles, pulp and other ways. The forest, however, contains a mixed stand of these species, Douglas fir, cedar and hemlock; and the proportion of cedar and hemlock increases as you proceed north. Logging, as already pointed out, requires all species to be cut. This means that on the Puget Sound the smaller percentage of cedar in the Puget Sound stand can be easily used, whereas the Vancouver market is liable to be flooded with this material. Another feature is that cedar very largely goes into the manufacture of shingles. British Columbia sells about seventy-five per cent of her shingles in the United States in keen competition with Washington. She has been able to maintain and increase her position in that market, largely because, as stated in the report of the Tariff Commission to the President, "In character of production, British Columbia mills have a distinct market advantage in that they produce chiefly high-grade shingles, the demand for which is increasing, whereas Washington and Oregon mills produce mainly low-grade shingles, the demand for which is declining."

HIGHER GRADE

In order to maintain this high-grade products a higher grade of logs is required, and in sizes sixteen inches and over. A smaller log will not make an edge-grain shingle. What is to become of the low grades? At present the prospects are open, either to export them or to leave them to rot in the woods.

The Japanese market has been open of late years for large quantities of small cedar logs from twelve inches and up in diameter and seven and thirteen feet in length. These have been obtained in both British Columbia and Washington. This market has developed a use for the trimming from pole butts, tree tops, small trees formerly left broken down in the woods. This export not only permits the reduction of this waste, but brings real money into the Province, and creates a pay roll otherwise non-existent. It is sometimes questioned, "Why not saw this and sell the product?" It would produce only low-grade common lumber, of which the mills already carry a surplus. The Japanese, with their cheap labor, are able to work these logs up into their own peculiar products, often taking the log and cutting it up by hand. They do not want the sawn product.

LARGE LOGS EXPORTED

Still another case, in our operations we get a small percentage of very large logs. Our mills are not equipped to readily handle logs over four feet in diameter, and equipment to handle these would constitute large extra investments. When fifty or sixty-inch logs were included in the regular boom, they had to be split at considerable extra cost and loss before they were sawn. They were often allowed to go around the mill boom until they became food for teredoes. One mill at Tacoma is especially designed to handle this class of material and draws its supply from the entire coast. Loggers who sort these logs out can, where export is allowed, find a ready market, and the price is fully equal to that secured for average grade of sawn lumber. A material, therefore, not used locally is turned into a valuable trade medium. Limited export used in this way is not a handicap to local development, but a valuable asset. In the shingle business, for example, the British Columbia shingle industry increased from 778,000,000 shingles in 1912 to over 3,000,000,000 in 1926, whereas the Washington-Oregon production has decreased from 8,267,000,000 in 1912 to 6,639,000,000 in 1925. That is, in spite of export, the expansion in the industry has been in British Columbia, and this has been largely due to the investment of American money in mills here.

Export to-day is regulated so that it permits the shipment of the lower grades of material not required here. It is an outlet for salvage and, as such, is sound economic policy.

CRITICISMS OF POLICY

Boiled down, the criticisms of present forest policy are that methods are wasteful and that no means are taken towards reforestation. I have dealt with the question of waste, and I would like to know whether anyone will seriously suggest that we should begin an elaborate programme of planting. In the research work which we are carrying on, we have experimental plots in various parts of the Province, where tree growth, under varying conditions, is being studied. We have established forest reserves in different parts of the Province, which reserves will be handled upon a scientific basis.

We have both the experience and the information of other countries of the world. Last year the chief forester attended the World Conference of Foresters at Rome, and visited countries of Europe where forestry practice has been studied for centuries. The people of the Province, I think, should feel assured that all it being done that reasonably can be done.

One of the chief difficulties which we have to encounter is that too many peopel look at the question from a purely sentimental standpoint without giivng consideration to the economic aspect. The forester must consider the question from every angle. We must live to-day in order to survive to-morrow, and we must survive to-morrow in order to carry on the next day, and that is what we are trying to do in the Forest Service.

New Ore Discovery Made at The Pass

Winnipeg, Nov. 1—A new ore thought to be extremely rich in lead, zinc, silver and gold, has been discovered in northern Manitoba.

Located north of Mile 200 on the Hudson Bay Railway, and farther east than any outstanding mineral property discovered in northern Manitoba, the new area is said to be notable as the first in which there is strong evidence that it contains a considerable quantity of silver.

Premier John Bracken, who was at The Pas last week stated to-night that he had been notified of the discovery and that he had been greatly interested by the news but he had not been notified of any details that he could divulge.

The discovery, which was just made the other day, caused great excitement at The Pas when the news leaked out. There was a big rush of prospectors to the area, and many claims on adjoining land have been filed already.

Bureau Will Soon Start Circulation Of Winter Folders

In the space of a couple of weeks the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau will start the distribution of its annual Winter folder. These pamphlets of which 100,000 are being printed, will be sent all over the prairie provinces, to Eastern Canada and also to California.

The Winter folders ar dispatched to agents of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways while the bureau also has a private mailing list totaling 25,000. Last year 80,000 of these folders were circulated while previous to this only 25,000 were published.

The folder advertises Victoria's Winter climate, pastimes and recreations, such as fishing, hunting and golf.

Pain? Gas? Can't Eat?

"A sufferer from Indigestion Constipation, dreadful stomach pains, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'. Soon these ills were things of the past."
Mrs. Annie Glover, 16 Henry St., Ottawa

There is no other medicine like "Fruit-a-tives". Made from fresh fruit juices and tonics, it quickly relieves indigestion, constipation and kindred ills. 25c and 50c a box.

Fruit-a-tives

Acid Stomach

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

BETTER THAN SODA

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

That Practical Joke About Looking Upward

You can't help yourself. If you see someone standing still in the street, looking upward, you bend your neck backward. You want to see too. You want to know what's going on.

That instinct is perhaps the main reason for newspapers. So you can know what's going on. Going on among your neighbors, among the people in the next province, in other lands. You want to know the news.

And that's what advertising is for, too. So you can know what's going on. So you can know the news about styles in clothing, about theories in foods, about the latest improvements in radio amplifiers or automobile engines or face creams. News! You want to know the news.

The advertising in this newspaper is here to tell you things. It is here to keep you in touch with the things that are going on. Advertisements are interesting. They are useful. They are news.

LIQUIDATION TANGLE ENDS

Winnipeg, Nov. 1.—The controversy between the trustees and the National Trust Company, provisional liquidator, for possession of the Great West Permanent Loan Company ended last night when the trustees retired and the property was taken over by the liquidator. This course was adopted by the trustees when Mr. Justice Dysart made a formal order late yesterday declaring the liquidator entitled to possession of the company's property as it stood immediately prior to the day the trustees entered.

The winding-up order was made October 18, but four days previously the trustees had taken charge under a deed of trust and claimed prior rights to the company's assets. Mr. Justic Dysart ruled that "the trustees had no excuse for refusing the liquidator entry."

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—Mayor "Bill" Thompson's "American First Foundation," founded to combat alleged pro-British propaganda, was termed "claptrap" by Senator William Cabell Bruce in refusing to become a member of the body.

Senator Millard E. Tidings said he had consigned a similar invitation to the wastebasket.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Golf Game

Copyright, 1927, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

(By Howard R. Garis)

"Dear me!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily one morning as he hopped out of bed to look in the bureau and see if his hair needed combing, which of course it did. "This is quite too bad!"

"What is?" asked Mrs. Longears who was already up, getting ready to go down stairs and help Nurse Jane set the breakfast table. "What is too bad?"

"My rheumatism," answered the rabbit gentleman. "Oh! Ouchie! Wowchie! What a pain!" and he made such a funny face that his wife would have laughed if she had not known how badly Uncle Wiggily felt.

"You get right back into bed," she told him. "I'll bring your breakfast up to you and then I'll send for Dr. Possum."

"No! No!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

"Silly!" said his wife, smiling, "you're as bad as Baby Bunty about not wanting the doctor and about going back to bed?"

"Oh, it isn't that," said Mr. Longears, limping about the room. "My rheumatism doesn't hurt enough to keep me in bed, and I don't need Dr. Possum. But it is painful enough to keep me from playing golf to-day with Mr. Stubtail, the bear gentleman. I certainly can't walk over the big golf field and Mr. Stubtail will be so disappointed, as I was going to show him some new strokes. Oh, dear, it really is too bad! Dear me! No golf to-day!"

Then Mrs. Longears had an idea.

"Look here," she said. "The other day I saw some dog gentleman playing a little game of golf in the front yard of Mr. Bow Wow's kennel. They had clubs, golf balls and everything and were getting a lot of fun out of it."

"Ouch! I mean nonsense, if you will kindly excuse me!" said Uncle Wiggily, rubbing his rheumatic leg with one ear. "But how could Mr. Bow Wow play golf in his front yard. It isn't large enough. First shot he would send the ball over the fence!"

"I watched them," said Mrs. Longears. "They didn't play a regular golf game, of course. But Mr. Bow Wow had some holes dug in the grass and he and Old Percival and Mr. Ki Yi and Mr. Wuff were knocking the white balls about. They didn't knock them far, but tapped them gently with the clubs and the balls rolled into the holes and——"

"Ha! Thank you for telling me!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "I'll do the same thing. I'll make a little golf game right here in my own yard. We can play around the hollow stump bungalow two or three times. There is room for nine holes. I'll have some fun with Mr. Stubtail after all."

Uncle Wiggily was excited in such a jolly way that he almost forgot his rheumatism pain. He began digging some holes to knock the balls into and so the holes would stay open, and not close shut like a doll's eyes, the rabbit gentleman set in the holes little flower pots. Then he found some long-handled sand shovels his little bunnies were through playing with and he painted the shovels part red.

"I'll put white numbers over the red and they'll look just like regular golf game numbers at the holes," said Mr. Longears. And when he had done this, and the sharpened ends of the handle shovels were thrust in each flower pot hole, why! there was as fine a little golf game as ever a duffer or putter or niblik could wish.

"Say, this is lots of fun!" cried the bear gentleman in his gruff but jolly voice as he played around with Uncle Wiggily. "This is a great idea of yours."

"Oh, my wife thought of it," answered Mr. Longears like the true gentleman he was. And so the little golf game went on, around and around the bungalow. After a while the Skillery Scallery Alligator, slinking up out of the swamp, saw Uncle Wiggily standing near the ninth hole leaning on his club, waiting for Mr. Stubtail to make a putt.

"Ah ha! This is where I sneak up and get a rabbit!" whispered the Alligator. So up he sneaked softly on his tiptoes, behind Uncle Wiggily. The 'Gator opened his big mouth, ready to take a most impolite bite when, all of a sudden Mr. Stubtail drove his golf ball. Over the grass it rolled straight into the open mouth of the Alligator.

"Gurr Wuff! Ker choo! Ga lal la!" coughed the bad chap as he swallowed the golf ball. And it gave him such a pain that away he waddled, much to Uncle Wiggily's surprise. So the bunny wasn't bitten after all, and he thanked Mr. Stubtail very much. And when he took another golf ball out of his pocket the bear gentleman finished the game, though I am glad to say Mr. Longears won, even if he did have rheumatism. But it was all in jolly good fun and Mr. Stubtail didn't care.

So if the toy ship will sail across the bathtub and bring the wash rag a cake of soap for a present, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the swan.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Well, there you are," the parrot said. And then he proudly shook his head. "I know the call of every bird, as you can plainly see. I whistle, and it works out great because they think I am their mate. The birds come flying quickly, just to find it's only me."

"You sure can fool them," Coppy cried. And then the flock of birds he eyed. Not one of them seemed scared at all, and they all chattered loud. "I'll bet they want some food to eat," said Clowny. "Let's give them a treat." Right back into the forest ran the merry little crowd.

They found some nuts upon the ground and all the birds soon gathered 'round. They fluttered in the air a while, then settled on the land. The Tinies found it heaps of fun and just before the meal was done, wee Carpy shouted, "Look! The parrot's eating from my hand."

Then Clowny had a foolish hunch that he would like to scare the bunch. He clapped his hands real loud and yelled. It startled everyone. The birds flew quickly in the air till only one was standing there. Said Scouty, "That was mean of you, just see what you have done."

The one bird left still stood real near. It was a penguin, very queer. "He doesn't fly," said Coppy, "but he hops with all his might." And then the bird began to hop. They wondered if he'd ever stop, and followed him down to the beach, where he hopped out of sight.

"Oh, look!" cried Clowny. "Out at sea, there's something that looks odd to me." The others glanced and saw it too, and Scouty yelled, "Hurray! It is a barrel, I declare. I wonder how it got out there. It's riding on a foamy waveand coming in this way."

(The mysterious barrel lands on shore in the next picture.)

Passengers Had Narrow Escape

Ithica, N.Y., Nov. 1.—Twenty-two passengers escaped death or serious injury yesterday when a trolley car of which the motor man had lost control backed down a steep hill from the Cornell Campus for nearly a mile until it crashed into another car on a downtown street. Three persons were slightly injured.

Coolness on the part of the car's crew prevented more injuries. They huddled the passengers in one end of the car and refused to open the doors to permit them to jump.

AID FOR B.C. INDIANS

Vancouver, Nov. 1—Asquisition of a wing of the Kamloops hospital for treatment of tubercular Indians will probably be one of the uses to which part of the $100,000 special annual Federal grant for the benefit of British Columbia Indians will be devoted, according to C. C. Perry, Indian agent here. The expenditure, he said, might approach $20,000.

"Cuddling in motor-cars," says a magistrate, "is serious and dangerous." It may end in matrimony.

KFI to Broadcast Bridge Instructions Each Tuesday Night

Beginning this evening, KFI will broadcast instructions on bridge games every Tuesday night from 8.30 to 9 o'clock. This feature will go to KFI and other western stations over the National Broadcasting Company's Pacific Coast Network.

This has lately become a very popular form of radio entertainment over eastern networks, and the western audience will undoubtedly welcome its inauguration over the Pacific network.

A nationally known authority on bridge will instruct the listeners to deal out four hands, stipulating the cards which go to each hand. The receptionists lay the cards out, face up, so they can be seen, and the lecturer then tells how each hand should be bid and played. In this way many knotty problems in the proper playing of the popular game can be worked out. It has been found that where bridge games were broadcast in the East, over seventy per cent of the listeners made permanent notations of the instructions for future reference.

POLICE SEEK HIT AND RUN DRIVER

Speeding Automobile Narrowly Misses Child and Kills Dog Outright

Racing along Gorge Road at a high rate of speed, an automobile, the driver of which is not yet known to the police, just missed a little child, and instantly killed a valuable Boston bull terrier, according to a report to the police by F. H. Parsons, 563 Manchester Street, last night. City police are investigating the case to-day.

The child was unhurt, but the driver never stopped to see what damage he had done, according to Mr. Parsons.

PENSION ISSUE FACING COUNCIL FOR SETTLEMENT

Mayor J. C. Pendray Urges Action on Superannuation Plan

A straight request for action on superannuation affairs was made by Mayor J. C. Pendray to the pensions committee of the City Council last night. The city had pledged itself to undertake the solution of the superannuation problem, and had been very fairly met by the men, said his worship. Would the by-law bringing in the necessary authority to grant pensions be ready in time for a start by December 1, he asked.

Alderman William Marchant, chairman of the committee in question, said that the by-law could be prepared without further delay. Committee members had been busy on other committees, but would sit at 4 o'clock today. There was no reason why the superannuation plan, as finally to be presented, could not become operative on December 1, concluded Alderman Marchant.

The employees of the city, who had withdrawn the petition which would have forced the city's hand in favor of the British Columbia Superannuation Act, had acted in an open and honorable manner, and the council had either to provide a by-law of its own making, or else bring the Provincial measure into force, concluded the Mayor, asking early action on the issue.

Meanwhile a list of those of pensionable age and now in the employ of the city in its various services will be prepared.

Under the Provincial measure the city would pay $29,000 a year and the employees $25,000 a year. Under a compromise plan of meeting actual costs the city would supply the same benefits to the pensioned for a cost ranging from $16,000 upward, the committee has told the council.

DOUBLE IMPOST TOO MUCH SAYS TRADES LICENSEE

Roads and Poll Taxes on Top of License Classed as Unfair Burden

Voting Rights Bound up in Issue Before City For Solution

The abolition of road and poll taxes for trades license holders who pay in excess of $7 per annum for their licenses received considerable support before the City Council last night, and will probably be advocated by the city to the legislature after a further study of the effect of the proposed change.

The point was raised again in a letter of complaint from P. W. Tow, who pointed to the injustice of collecting road and poll taxes from trades license holders. Some trades license holders pay a considerable sum to the city, in excess even of the normal tax on land, and are yet denied the privilege of a vote unless they also pay poll and road taxes, it was shown under the present law.

An amendment to the Municipal Act would be necessary to bring about the change desired. All members of the council who spoke on the issue favored the proposal to seek a change in the law, but deferred action meanwhile for a report on the legal aspect of the situation, from H. S. Pringle, city solicitor.

Aldermen E. S. Woodward, James Adam and H. O. Litchfield made a strong plea for the abolition of the dual form of taxation which is exacted now without statutory redress. Mayor Pendray held the point was well taken, and asked for an early report.

Cassidy Chinaman Takes Own Life

Nanaimo, Nov. 1.—Chin Ling, a Chinaman of Cassidy, who had been employed about the mines there for the past ten years, was found hanging from a rafter in the chicken house late Friday evening by Staff Sergeant Stephenson, of the local provincial police. Ling had left a note in his shack, stating that he was going to hang himself and asking the person who found the note to burn it. He also said that he had lost a few hundred dollars gambling. The note was left in a match box and alongside of it was a cheque for forty dollars, and two two-dollar bills. It was found by a friend, who notified the police, resulting in the search and finding the body.

Before going to Cassidy to work, Chin Ling was employed at the machine shops at Union Bay, where he was well known.
